NORWEGIANS DRIVE NAZIS FROM KEY POINTS

HITLER OVERSTEPS HIMSELF

Adolf Hitler, the man who "never made a mistake" and in the eyes of the great masses of German people could do no wrong, has finally overreached himself.

This does not mean he is beaten. Not by a long shot. But by his ill-timed invasion of Denmark and Norway he has walked into what geographically and economically is virtually Great Britain's own battleground. Today his small but capable high seas fleet faces the possibility of total extinction by the British navy.

This potentiality even the Germans are not overlooking. But they say with confidence that the fleet has always been the weakest and last important arm of the Nazi military machine. They predict that Britain herself will suffer heavily before this object is attained, if at all.

Yet it cannot be overlooked that Hitler, who for so long held his army in check along the Western Front and used his air force only to harry and annoy British naval bases, opened wide the floodgates of total warfare.

Most important, he made the challenge where Britain is or should be best prepared to meet it.

Censorship throughout Europe is stricter today than at any time since the war began. It is not easy to determine the exact status either of the situation in Norway or of the violent air and sea battles raging off the Scandinavian coasts.

But it seems a safe assumption that Hitler was taken entirely by

Nazi Troops Occupy Bridgehead in First Photo of Invasion

GERMAN troops are shown as they occupied an unidentified Danish bridgehead in this first photo of the German expeditionary force as it pushed its invasion of Scandinavia. The Nazi censor who passed the picture did not reveal the exact location of the bridgehead, saying only that it was "somewhere in Denmark." Such scenes have occurred throughout Denmark.

French Await Western Move

Paris Reports Intensified Action Certain "Any Day" With Germans Sending Strong Reinforcements Into Various Areas

PARIS, April 11—A prediction that there may be intensified action on the Western Front "any day now" was made today by a French war ministry spokesman as it was announced two German planes had been brought down by French pursuit craft.

The official spokesman revealed that the German army had placed certain units in "immediate attacking position," although he emphasized that this was not yet general along the whole Western Front.

WOMAN INJURED AS CAR MISSES ROUTE 56 CURVE

Mrs. John J. Kinney, 61, of Hyde Park, Cincinnati, suffered a fracture of the right shoulder at 11 a. m. Thursday when the car in which she was riding with her daughter missed a sharp curve in Route 56 near the Salt Creek Township school. The machine left the highway.

Mrs. Kinney, brought to Berger Hospital by Emmett Shupe, Salt Creek Township, was treated by Dr. Lloyd Jones who reported also that she had back bruises and cuts on an ear.

Her daughter, Mrs. W. R. La-Force, also of Cincinnati, was bruised about the face, but did not require hospitalization.

They were enroute to a funeral when the accident happened.

SAFETY DIRECTOR HURT

COLUMBUS, April 11—George Ward, Columbus safety director, suffered fractures of four ribs in an automobile accident Wednesday southwest of Wilmington. He was brought here during the night from Hale Hospital, Wilmington. Several Columbus newspapers were injured in the mishap, none seriously however. The party was enroute to Cincinnati to study a charter amendment.

'CONGRESS MUST STAY ON JOB'

Republican Solons Start Cry; Nye Says Europe's War Must Be Watched

WASHINGTON, April 11—Demands that congress stay in session throughout the European war emergency—no matter how long it lasts—were sounded on both sides of Capitol Hill today.

Sens. Lodge (R) Mass., Capper (R) Kan., and Nye (R) N. D., made the appeal in the senate; Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R) Mass., led the movement in the house.

The demands ran counter to leadership plans for a June 1 adjournment, but the G. O. P. leaders insisted that as long as a critical situation exists in Europe, the welfare of America calls for congress to stay on the job.

"Congress should be here, national conventions or no national conventions, to watch over this country's foreign policy and to guard against any moves that might drag us into the conflict," said Nye.

Capper said "we must maintain (Continued on Page Eight)

MERCURY SLIDE PREDICTED FOR LATE THURSDAY

By International News Service

Winter was scheduled to pay a return visit to Ohio tonight.

While possible showers today were to be accompanied by temperatures much like those of yesterday, wintry blasts sweeping down from the Canadian northwest were to reach the state within 24 hours, weather bureau officials said.

Temperatures were to rise somewhat during the day from the 40's and 50's registered this morning before plunging to abnormal and near-freezing marks tonight. Friday was to be fair and colder.

WOMAN LEAPS TO DEATH

NEW YORK, April 11—Attired in a blue dinner gown, an attractive blonde woman of about 40 plunged to death today from an upper room of the exclusive Hotel Plaza, her body landing on the roof of the dining room on an inner court.

DEFENDERS GAIN HAMAR, BERGEN FROM INVADERS

Another Division Takes Arms To Cooperate With Britain In Expulsion Campaign

RAIL ADVANCE HALTED

Sweden Takes Precautions, Many Troops Preparing For Emergency

STOCKHOLM, April 11—Norway mobilized another army division today and embarked on full military cooperation with Great Britain after ousting the German invaders from a number of strategic key points.

Shortly after noon the military situation appeared to be as follows:

Norwegian troops have reoccupied Hamar, the city first chosen as Norway's capital after the fall of Oslo.

The German advance along the northern railroad near Narvik has been halted. The newspaper Svenska Dagbladet reported without confirmation that British troops have dislodged the Germans from Narvik itself.

Announcement of Norway's latest successes in counter-acting the lightning German invasion was made by Carl J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, who is now in Stockholm.

After talking with members of his government by telephone, Hambro announced that the commander of Norwegian forces in the North had been authorized to mobilize the Sixth Division and to contact Great Britain's forces "at the earliest possible moment" for joint action against the Nazis.

Germans Isolated

Norwegian counter-action along the Narvik railroad was a surprise move, Hambro said, the Germans being thrown back before they could fire a shot. As a result, he said, German troops in the North are now isolated and cut off from (Continued on Page Eight)

WESTERN RANCH FEUD FATAL TO FOUR PERSONS

MONTE VISTA, Colo., April 11—A mother of 10 children died today and her 22-year-old son was near death as the result of a gun fight in which three men were killed as a bloody climax to a feud of long-standing between Rio Grande County ranchers.

The death-dealing gunplay occurred on a highway just outside the ranch of Pat Maes, 50, sheep rancher 12 miles south of Monte Vista, Colo. Maes, peace officers said, admitted slaying his brother-in-law, Manuel Ortega, 40; Deputy Sheriff Raymond Martinez, 38, and Edward Dominguez, 30.

Police Chief Max Richardson and Sheriff C. P. Phillips said Maes told him he shot down the three men after his wife, 44, and their son, Frank, first had been shot by Deputy Sheriff Martinez when the two parties alighted from automobiles and an argument ensued. Mrs. Maes died today.

CHURCHILL ADMITS LOSS OF DESTROYERS IN WAR

LONDON, April 11—Loss of two British destroyers and damage to the 33,900-ton battleship Rodney were reported to the House of Churchill, first lord of the admiralty.

The lost destroyers were the 1,345-ton Glowworm and the 1,870-ton Gurkha.

European Bulletins

WASHINGTON—The State Department was informed today from official sources in Europe that all Americans in Oslo and Copenhagen are safe and well.

BERLIN—The German government announced today that the luxury liner Bremen, reported by the British press to have been torpedoed, is safe at some undisclosed port.

LONDON—A Reuters (British) dispatch from Budapest said today that it was reported persistently three German monitors have been sent to patrol the lower Danube River. (German authorities several days ago announced they had frustrated an allied plot to block the Danube and prevent shipping between Germany and the Black Sea.)

PARIS—German forces on the Western Front have made "certain preparations" for attack, it was announced officially today.

BERLIN—Formation of a new Danish national government, consisting of present Socialist-Radical Prime Minister Stauning and six members of opposition parties, has been announced by the official German news agency in a dispatch from Copenhagen. This action was reported to have followed a session of the Riksdag (parliament) in which Stauning declared that the government decided to establish order on the basis of German occupation of the country.

PARIS—American Ambassador William C. Bullitt was back in Paris today following a visit to the United States, where he made a complete report to President Roosevelt on European affairs. (Continued on Page Eight)

BANDITS ESCAPE WITH $16,000 OF FEDERAL MONEY

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., April 11—Bandits today looted the New Britain railroad station and escaped with $16,000 in Federal Reserve notes in a daring daylight holdup.

The money was in two strong boxes and had been sent from Boston to the New Britain bank. Four men were known to have participated in the robbery.

They handcuffed Fred Tormay, station agent of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, to a door knob and escaped with the boxes. Tormay was released when Percy Wells, another railroad employee, discovered him and found that the bandits had obligingly left the handcuff keys in the station.

A half hour after the robbery a Hartford policeman, Homer Gouette, was shot at by men in a car bearing New York license plates. Gouette, cruising in a patrol car, spotted the New York auto in Goodwin Park and started to follow it. The auto picked up speed and Gouette said he was shot at with machine guns as it escaped.

An eighth state alarm has been issued.

CONVICT SAYS FACTORY OPERATOR HIRED HIM TO FIRE PIQUA MILLS

TROY, April 11—The defense today endeavored to shake the testimony of William Dowty, a confessed arsonist, that Gustav A. Holland, now on trial, induced him to set the $100,000 blaze which on December 18 destroyed the Holland Mills at Piqua.

The state is endeavoring to prove that Holland, prominent Piqua businessman, hired Dowty to fire the mill, now owned by the Glidden Company of Cleveland, to remove competition for his own newly-established plant, the Holland Pioneer Mills.

Dowty, now serving a Mansfield Reformatory sentence for his part in the crime, readily admitted starting the blaze.

Allies To Sink All Nazi Ships In North Area

Churchill Tells Commons His Forces Now In Charge Of Faroe Islands; Lowlands Warned To Prepare For Emergencies

HITLER'S RECKLESSNESS DISCUSSED

Great Damage Inflicted Against Reich's Navy; Bigger Events To Come, States England's Lord Of Admiralty

LONDON, April 11—All German ships in the Skagerrak and the Kattegat will be destroyed, First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today.

LONDON, April 11—Four German cruisers, numerous destroyers, supply ships and transports have been destroyed by the British navy in Scandinavian waters, First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today.

British forces are occupying the strategic Faroe Islands formerly owned by Denmark, he disclosed, and an airtight cordon has been thrown around Iceland.

In his first full review of the war since German invasion of Denmark and Norway, Churchill bluntly warned Belgium, Holland and Sweden that they face a similar fate at German hands and characterized Adolf Hitler's present operations as "a prelude to far greater events."

In reprisal, Britain is now embarking "on virtually unrestricted submarine warfare except where humanitarian considerations prevail, he said, the under-sea fleet having been accorded "full liberty of action."

Reports Discounted

Churchill said there was no foundation for reports that British troops had recaptured and occupied Bergen and Trondheim on Norway's coast and was reluctant to describe British successes. He did say, however, that Germany's cruiser arm had been crippled and hinted at an eventual smashing blow by the British navy.

Strategically, economically and politically, Adolf Hitler has over-reached himself by extending the war so far North, Churchill said, and compared the Fuehrer's error in strategy with Napoleon's invasion of Spain.

"The very recklessness with which Hitler and his advisers cast the interests of the German navy on wild waters," Churchill said, "makes me feel that costly and audacious operations may be only a prelude to far large events which impend on land..."

"We have probably arrived now at the first main test of the war, but find no reason in the facts of what has just happened, still less in our own hearts, to deter us from entering any fresh trials which may be before us."

Briefly, Churchill's long and carefully-worded address may be summarized:

1—British troops have not landed in Norway, but needed portions of her coast can be seized "whenever we want them."

2—The German navy has suffered badly, with four cruisers sunk, the battleship Scharnhorst hit, and a supply base destined to make Narvik, Norway, a new Gibraltar "broken up" by British guns.

3—Effectiveness of Britain's blockade has improved immeasurably now that Norway's neutrality is gone.

4—Other neutral nations will now be well advised to ask for British and French aid before they themselves have been made victims of "elaborately planned and scientifically carried out" German invasion.

5—Hitler has gained nothing from his Scandinavian venture and faces ultimate loss of his entire navy. All German ships in the Skagerrak and Kattegat "will be destroyed."

6—The British navy lost two destroyers and the 33-900-ton battleship (Continued on Page Eight)

BRITISH REPORT 30 NAZI SHIPS SUNK IN BATTLE

LONDON, April 11 — Thirty German ships—warcraft as well as commercial vessels—have been sunk in battle off the Norwegian coast within the last few days, according to authoritative British sources.

Official admiralty figures are not available, although it is expected that Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, will make a complete report to the House of Commons.

Authoritative quarters however, claim that the following figures show German and British losses, some of which are without confirmation:

German Losses

The cruisers Gneisenau, Bluecher, Karlsruhe and Emden sunk and two others bombed and damaged. Three destroyers sunk, three others burning at Narvik, two others damaged.

The freighters Kreta, Poseiden, Amasis and seven others sunk.

The Rio De Janeiro and two other unidentified troop transports sunk.

The liner Bremen (unconfirmed) sunk.

The ammunition ship Rauensfels sunk.

One submarine sunk.

British Losses

Destroyers Hardy and Hunter sunk.

Destroyer Hotspur seriously damaged.

Destroyer Hostile slightly damaged.

HARMON DAIRY TO BE OPENED IN NEXT WEEK

Circleville Man, Graduate Of University, To Head New Organization

MILK SUPPLY ARRANGED

Space Obtained In Plant Of Cooperative Assn., West Main Street

The Harmon Dairy Company, headed by David Harmon, West Mound Street, will start operations in Circleville on April 20. Mr. Harmon, who announced formation of the new company, has been associated with the Pickaway Dairy Cooperative Association since his graduation from Ohio State University in March with a degree of dairy technology.

The dairy will obtain its supply of milk from the splendid herds of Robert D. Musser and Charles Walters. Mr. Musser's herd, pastured in Washington Township, includes 35 pedigree Guernsey and Ayrshire cows, while Walter's herd of 30 pedigree Ayrshires is pastured in Circleville Township.

Glass lined stainless steel equipment for the production of a complete line of dairy products is being installed in the space that has been rented from the Pickaway Dairy Cooperative Association, West Main Street.

The initial production capacity is expected to be 250 quarts of milk a day, Harmon said, in addition to the cream, cheese and chocolate milk output. Plant expansion will follow when the production units are functioning and the initial capacity is running at its peak.

Although the new dairy will be producing at the Pickaway Dairy plant, the two companies are not related or associated.

INSPECTION BY 35 MEN TOPS ANTI-FIRE EVENT

CHILICOTHE, April 11—Chillicothe celebrated "Fire Prevention Day" Wednesday as 35 fire inspectors from Columbus made a survey of the fire hazards and fire prevention needs throughout the city. Accompanied by Boy Scouts, the inspectors toured business establishments, schools and public buildings.

Recommendations in an official report of the survey was made at a public dinner at St. Paul's Parish Hall in the evening. In general, the officials reported that they found "everything pretty well cleaned up."

Show Officials Alter Attitude

The outlook for the 1940 Pumpkin Show brightened, Robert Colville, society treasurer, reported Wednesday when he returned from Columbus following a conference with officials in the Department of Agriculture.

"We still haven't received complete assurance that our 1940 funds will not be held up," he said, "but it appears that the attitude of the Department has changed. When we receive a statement in an official letter and see it in black and white then we will proceed with our plans. Until then our arrangements will be tentative."

The speculation about the 1940 show arose when John T. Brown, secretary of agriculture, threatened to withhold the state's annual $800 contribution for the promotion of the county event. The money for the 1939 Show was refunded to the county three months after it was due.

"If there is any change in their policy and they inform us that our funds will be withheld, we will have to use the money that is usually given to the county agent, F. K. Blair, which is used for the promotion of Junior Fair and 4-H Club activities," Colville continued.

HELEN HAYES
Helen Hayes, popularly known

He explained that there are 11 other counties in the state whose fair is held on the streets of the county seat. It is doubtful, he said, whether the department would care to risk the alienation of those 11 counties.

The objection of the department to the Circleville Pumpkin Show was based on the fact that the fair is held on the streets of the city and that two bingo games were being operated on lawns near the streets during the fair.

"I think that we have cause to be optimistic," Colville said, "but we can only wait and see what will happen when they make their position official."

as 'the first lady of the American theatre,' will be starred Wednesday, April 17, 9 p. m. CBS when the Star Theatre dramatizes "Ice-bound," by Owen Davis.

Donald Wood, well known film and stage player will support Miss Hayes in this play about the Jordan family, a New England group as "icebound" emotionally as the weather outside the windows of their parlor. As the play opens, members of the Jordan clan are waiting in the parlor while upstairs their mother is dying. Each child selfishly hopes that the major share of the matriarch's money will be his, but when the will is read, it is June (played by Miss Hayes), a distant relative and almost a servant in the house, who is the beneficiary. The Jordans are furious but Jane considers that she holds the money in trust and the rest of the play tells how she shames the smallmindedness of the family and reforms Ben, the family ne'er-do-well, by making him her servant until he has learned to think of someone other than himself.

MIRIAM HOPKINS
Miriam Hopkins, blonde favorite of stage, radio and screen, will play the part of Ann Hathaway when Rudy Vallee and his troupe present a historical fantasy based on that part of Shakespeare's life when he was writing "Romeo and Juliet." Program, to be broadcast at 9:30 tonight over the NBC-Red network, will also mark the first radio appearance of Margaret Hamilton, who portrayed the witch in the "Wizard of Oz." Miss Hamilton will play the part of Queen Elizabeth, who wanted to enact Juliet back in the days when Will dreamed her up. Rudy will sing "Wind and the Rain in Your Hair," and the two original production numbers will be "All's Well That Ends Well" and "Romeo."

POWELL SETS MARKS
Teddy Powell's orchestra, which has been breaking records in its current engagement at the Arcadia Ballroom in New York, has been renewed for six weeks. Their three weekly NBC broadcasts from there will continue for the length of the run. On June 5, by popular demand, the Powell band will return to the Famous Door, famous cradle of swing, for an indefinite stay.

"The Underpup," which sent 12-year-old Gloria Jean soaring to stardom in the movies overnight, will be presented with the original cast by the Raido Theatre, Monday, April 15. Gloria Jean is currently at work on her second motion picture, "If I Had My Way," in which she co-stars with Bing Crosby. Nan Grey will be remembered by radio fans for her excellent work as Kathy in "Those We Love" which just concluded its run on the airwaves.

F. D. PREVENTS GERMANY FROM TAKING WEALTH

Danish And Norwegian Money Now In U. S. To Stay Here Despite Outcome

SHIPPING DECREES VITAL

Soviet Ports Included In Move To Keep Nation's Trade From Danger

WASHINGTON, April 11—One of the "methods short of war" which President Roosevelt once threatened to employ against aggressor states was in use today to prevent Germany from possibly acquiring millions of dollars in the United States.

The President last night issued two executive orders designed to prevent the Reich from indirectly transferring abroad any of the state or private wealth of either Denmark and Norway or their citizens, now held in the United States.

This financial blow at Berlin followed by only a few hours the President's extension of the "belligerent zone"—from which American ships are barred—to an area entirely surrounding the Scandinavian peninsula and extending East to include the Soviet ports of Murmansk and Archangel.

Angle Significant

That action, close scrutiny revealed, may also have been aimed at Berlin, as well as being designed to keep American ships out of the war zone. No United States vessel now can carry goods across the Atlantic to Russia—the Reich's economic ally—for possible shipment to Germany. Coming at a time when a British blockade threatens to close Russia's Pacific ports to war supplies which may be destined ultimately for the Reich, the inclusion of Russian ports in that new zone appeared significant.

The President's reference to "measures short of war"—under which last night's orders might be included—occurred in a speech Mr. Roosevelt made to congress on January 4, 1939. He said:

"Words may be futile, but was is not the only means of commanding a decent respect for the opinions of mankind. There are many methods short of war, but stronger and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to aggressor governments the aggressive sentiments of our own people."

Two executive orders—based on authority given the President under the "Trading With the Enemy Act of 1917" were issued by Mr. Roosevelt:

1. All payments to Danes and Norwegians of balances held by them in the United States was forbidden, except under licenses to be issued in exceptional cases by the secretary of the treasury.

2. Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau was ordered to make a complete inventory of all property—both governmental and private—owned by Danes or Norwegians in this country.

The orders were issued after extended conferences among State Department and treasury officials and envoys of the two Scandinavian countries over which Germany has asserted control.

Sleep is free to all. But the way some folks avoid it, the man at the next desk points out, one would think it was the most expensive commodity in the world.

Presbyterians Choose Officers, Hear Reports

Members of the First Presbyterian Church were well satisfied with the status of the church as revealed Wednesday in the various reports at the annual business meeting of the congregation which followed the cooperative dinner in the social room. Approximately 70 enjoyed the dinner with about 20 coming later for the business session.

The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey served as moderator of the congregational meeting with Harp Van Riper as clerk.

The first report received was that of the committee appointed at the 1939 session to investigate and revise the constitution and by-laws of the church. E. A. Brown, chairman, reported the findings of the committee comprised of Mrs. Will Mack, Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, E. O. Eagleson and James Sampson. After the constitution was read and the by-laws reviewed, the report of the committee was unanimously accepted.

George F. Grand-Girard, reporting for the Session of the church, recommended that the bench of deacons be increased from nine to 12 members. This recommendation was adopted by vote of the congregation.

Beginning with George Hammel who read the reports of the bench of deacons and Sunday school as treasurer of both organizations, each department of the church reported through one of its officers, including the Sunday school, Miss Katherine Foresman, secretary; the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. Edward S. Stephens, treasurer; Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. Grace Wentworth, treasurer; Women's Social Club, Mrs. G. G. Campbell, president; Tuxis Club, David Eagleson, president; Boy Scout Troop, No. 205, Dr. F. C. Schaeffer, scoutmaster; Women's Bible Class, Mrs. George Hammel, treasurer; Westminster Bible Class, Mrs. G. I. Nickerson, president; Presby-Weds, prepared report read by the Rev. Mr. Kelsey; church benevolences, Mr. Grand-Girard, treasurer; Men's Club, Don Walker, president. Marvin Steele, clerk of the Session, read the report previously submitted at the Tuesday meeting of Presbytery.

years. E. O. Crites and Mr. Eagleson served as tellers.

With the closing of the congregational business, J. O. Eagleson, president of the board of trustees, led the business meeting of the church corporation. Mr. Van Riper again serving as clerk. At this time it was disclosed that the receipts of the church for the last year were $4,743.46 and disbursements, $4,692.60, showing, with the balance of $50.86 in the treasury, that the church operated within its budget for the last year.

In order to complete the board of trustees as a properly organized unit, a seventh trustee was elected after the change in number was adopted. Robert Colville, church treasurer, was elected.

The Ladies' Aid Society held a short meeting in charge of Mrs. Mack, president, and unanimously elected the new slate of officers prepared by the nominating committee. Mrs. Leland Pontius is the new president and her assistants are Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach, vice president; Miss Sadie Brunner, secretary; Mrs. E. S. Stephens, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Kiger, Mrs. Eva Dresbach and Mrs. Clark Will, committee-at-large.

The trustees met in a brief session, the organization of this group for the year not being completed.

Folks in the good old days enjoyed some pleasures denied we moderns. Think what fun it must have been to, at least, peel off and discard that old suit of red flannels.

Hogs Up 10 Cents; Calves Take 30-Cent Slide Wednesday

A strong market on cattle and hogs was reported at the Wednesday sale at the yards of the Pickaway County Livestock Cooperative Association. Good quality cattle kept prices level with those of last week, but sold well. Hogs went up 10 cents in a strong and steady market. Calves took a 30 cent drop from a good high of last week and the market was not strong. A slow lamb market continued to be the report for the last month with quality lambs not available.

'APPLE A DAY' ADAGE BACKED BY PROFESSORS

CINCINNATI, April 11—The "apple a day keeps the doctor away" theory apparently still holds good.

Scientists attending the 99th meeting of the American Chemical Society were told today that "the usefulness of the apple diet is now established beyond a doubt."

Z. I. Kertesz, of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, read a paper in which he declared that an apple diet had proven particularly effective in curing diarrhea in infants. "But," Kertesz said, "there is no definite explanation how and why the apple is responsible for the action."

Progress made in the study of organic compounds known as sterols, particularly plant sterols, was described by Dr. Erhard Fernholz and Dr. Homer E. Staveland, New Brunswick, N. J. Sterols are of great interest, the men said, because they contain such physiologically active substance as vitamin D, certain glucosides valuable in the treatment of heart disease and the hormones of the adrenal cortex which have been effective in treating shock and Addison's disease.

One not-so-good feature about spring is that in order to find a place to store the snow shovel one usually must take out the lawn mower.

BARTENDER, 55, FACES CHARGES AFTER TRAGEDY

Chillicothean Killed When Forcibly Ejected From Cafe Door

MANSLAUGHTER CLAIMED

Repeated Warnings To Keep Quiet Preceded Fatal
Expulsion

CHILLICOTHE, April 11—Arraignment for Fred Schenke, 55, bartender at Hamelburg's Cafe, was scheduled for Thursday in Mayor Harold H. Brown's court on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Fred Shewalter, 57, Sherman Hotel, who died at Chillicothe Hospital, from injuries sustained when he had been forcibly ejected from the cafe Tuesday night.

A post mortem examination made by Dr. F. W. Nussbaum Wednesday night disclosed that death was the result of a skull fracture which extended about eight inches across the front of the skull and a branching fracture on the right side of the head extending upwards for two inches. Coroner
R. E. Oliver, who made the announcement, said that his official finding was homicide.

Police Chief Russell Poole, after a conference with Lester S.
Reid, prosecuting attorney, filed charges of manslaughter against Schenke who is at liberty on a $200 bond. A new bond will be fixed by Mayor Brown who will bind him over to the grand jury.

Ejected Twice
Schenke, in a signed statement, said that he had ejected Shewalter twice from the cafe after warning him to remain quiet if he wished to remain. After Shewalter had been ejected from the cafe for the third time, he was found unconscious on the sidewalk outside the cafe. He was taken to the hospital, but never regained consciousness.

Describing the last time he forced Shewalter out of his cafe Schenke said, "As he held back I threw him. Outside he either lost control of himself or stumbled on a cellar door at the sidewalk.
He fell backwards and struck his head on the sidewalk."

Only two surviving relatives have been found, Miss Anna Shewalter, Tuscon, a sister, and

COLUMBUS, O., April 11—Columbus recorded its 21st traffic fatality of the year today with the death of 81-year-old James O.
Branch, who died in Mt. Carmel Hospital after being struck by an acquaintance. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon.

Police said the car of Pearl Wareheim, 61, careened into a house on the corner after striking Branch.

COUNTY'S REAL ESTATE TAXES GO AHEAD OF '39

Tax returns for the first half of 1940 are well ahead of the comparative returns of last year.

Only tangible taxes ran behind those of a year ago. But the gap is expected to be closed before the week is out since several returns haven't come in yet.

The figures for 1939 and 1940
are shown in the order as follows:
Real estate: $247,208.92, $249-
$18.34; tangible taxes: $20,706.89,
$19,808.99; classified taxes: $9-$84.23, $10,529.57.

TRUSTEESHIP LETTERS, ACCOUNT FILED IN DAY

What is probably the fastest transaction in the history of the Pickaway County Probate Court took place Wednesday in the Lafa Lanman trusteeship when letters of trusteeship were issued and the final account was filed in that one day.

In the late Lafa Lanman's will, which was probated May 4, 1938, the provision is made that all his real estate at the time of his death should be given to his widow, Aitha E. Lanman, for life, but in the event of her remarriage Dale Lanman, his son, is to become trustee and sell the land at either private or public sale and distribute the proceeds according to the will.

Following Mrs. Lanman's remarriage, Probate Judge Lemuel Weldon issued letters of the trusteeship to Dale on Wednesday.
Later in the day, Dale filed a final account after he had sold the real estate and closed the trusteeship.

The land which was sold was 22.60 acres in Jackson Township in which the late Lafa Lanman had a one-half interest. That interest was valued at $1,030. Under the terms of the will Dale is to receive $500 from its sale and one-third of the remainder after the $500 is deducted. The other two-thirds goes to Mrs. Evelyn Hoover and Mrs. Opal M. Davis, daughters.

CONTEMPT CHARGE FILED AGAINST PEARL SMITH

A contempt of court action was brought Wednesday against Pearl Smith, Columbus, by his former wife Marima Smith Renick, Darbyville, in Common Pleas Court when she charged that he has defaulted in payments for the support of their son Richard, 14.

At the time of their divorce in May, 1933, the court ordered Smith to pay $4 weekly for the support of the child, then seven years old. The contempt of court action states that Smith has defaulted on the payments to the amount of $89.

Wayne, $6,778; Williams, $2,860;
Wood, $5,202; Wyandot, $1,698.

ASHVILLE

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

Had been hearing for a few days about a new frame building over on Cromley Street, West Side. So there was but one way to find out for sure all about it, and that was to go see for ourselves. And this we did.

At the new building now with frame about complete and of native sawed timber from the Frank Conrad mill nearby. Cement block foundation and of sizable dimensions. But the bad part of all of it, the workmen, Pork and Dick Cook told us that the building, because of interfering with nearby electric wires, may have to be moved.

Directly across the street from this frame work is the dwelling recently purchased by Roe and Mrs. Boyer of Columbus. And they sure are making some change in the appearance of things.

Next stop where we were sure they needed another boss, was at the door yard of James Hott where Asher, Mrs. Hott and Miss Sara Fraley were raking the lawn and seemingly doing a fine job of it. Mrs. Hott and Miss Fraley just recently returned from a trip to the National Capital to see the cherry blossom show but the bloom is a week late in getting out and the ladies were disappointed in this, but they had a fine trip and saw many interesting places.

At Neighbor Will's, near the Hotts, Ed Willis was spading up things right in the front door yard, the Mr. Willis doing the smoothing down act with the garden rake with Ernie Fellers doing the bossing. Next point, the gas stations with everybody too busy to even stand inspection.
Halted Minhard Crites just across the street at the cannery long enough to learn the near 600 acres of peas were near all sown and some coming up fine. Best kind of weather for peas, he said. Sanitary closets are being installed at the plant and Herb Gregg was busy on the cement work.

Pat Stoker had left the door unlocked at the Fred Richey experimental hybrid corn storage plant and we sneaked in to find Pat busy getting out orders for shipment to other corn experiment stations in several states.

Ashville
At the grain elevator there was plenty of action, a high powered salesman of the best coal under or on the earth was trying to anchor some of his wares. And besides,
Bob Immell, who wants to go to Washington as Congressman from this district was passing out cards to us boys. And what did he do before he became the big farmer that he now is down in Ross? We asked him. School teacher for nine years he said and never licked a kid. A keen little paddle, he found, got good results.

Chillicothe's Big Plants See End Of Supplies From Scandinavia

PRODUCTION TO CONTINUE

Canada, West Coast Sources Sufficient, Kettra And McVicker Say

CHILLICOTHE, April 11—The war in Scandinavia began to come close to home when fears were being expressed at the Mead Corporation in Chillicothe for pulp supplies which the war is cutting off from Norway.

Officials at the mill allayed the fears when they announced that home pulp supplies will prove adequate as the necessity arises. At the moment the war spread to the pulp producing Scandinavian countries it was indicated that no serious trouble to the mill in Chillicothe would result.

W. H. Kettra, purchasing agent of the Mead Corporation, said that production would go on as usual even if all the shipments from Norway and Sweden were cut off. Russell McVicker, purchasing agent of the Chillicothe Paper Company, concurred in this view. Canadian and West Coast sources were deemed sufficient to supply all the needs.

The situation abroad was termed "too confused" to be able to base any predictions on the possibility of still retaining the Scandinavian nations as a source for pulp. Effect of the invasion was noted in the prices quoted at the docks in New York where the price jumped to $72 a ton after being quoted at $50 the first of the year.

McVicker said that his company

PETTENGILL "The Gentleman from Indiana"

GIVE US A STRONG CONGRESS. Nominations for Congress and Senate are now getting under way. During the next month I shall write a column each week about the importance of Congress.

No one knows who the next President will be. But we can take steps now to ensure a strong Congress. Your vote counts far more for Congress than for President. For the latter you have one vote in 45 million. For Congressman you have one vote in about 125 thousand, and in the average Congressional primary one vote in 50 thousand. That means that your vote to nominate a strong Congressman counts a thousand times as much as your vote for President.

A strong Congressman or Senator for up for election next November must be nominated in the primaries or conventions now beginning. If in your district or state each party nominates a PETTENGILL weak Congressman or Senator, you will have no one but a weakling to vote for next fall.

We poke a lot of fun at Congress. Congressman and mothers-in-law are always in open season for jokes. That does no harm. It keeps them human. But Congress as such is not not a joke. Its members are your sole representatives, the only voice you have in determining the public policies under which you want to live.

Without making a false hero of any one, the fact remains that the legislative branch—Congress, parliament, a state legislature—is the heart of free institutions. Freedom has always risen or declined with the strength or weakness of the parliamentary body. It can be safely stated that no parliament ever destroyed the liberty of its constitutions so long as it retained the powers given it by them. As Jefferson said, "The authority has several contracts with Swedish mills, but does not think it possible for further shipments to get through the war zone.

the proprieties which should govern the Executive branch is to contrast present methods with the view of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the party whose name is now used by those who betray the principles he fought for. Said Jefferson of Congress, "I do not mean that any gentleman, relinquishing his own judgment, should support all the measures of the administration — my friendships with Congress I valued too highly to risk by usurpation on their freedom of judgment, and the conscientious pursuit of their own sense of duty."

If your present Senator or Congressman is a strong man, and has demonstrated that fact under fire — men for example like Burke of Nebraska, Byrd of Virginia and Johnson of California — keep him there. But if you don't have a strong man in Congress, put one there.

Want "in" on next year's "Big News" Now? Buick prices begin at $895* for Business Coupe (Illustrated) WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM YOU can figure it out for yourself from what you see in daily traffic and what you hear when the talk turns to automobiles. Buick's pacing the pack. Has been for several years. It called this year's style turn a year ago. It set current performance standards in '38 with its Dynaflash engine. It still leads the crowd for riding qualities with its BuicCoil Springing, now in its third year. So where's a more logical place to look for next year's "big news" than in this year's big and roomy Buick? It may be smoother engines. Buick is the only car that now balances power plants after assembly. Coil springs all around may come. Buick's never need lubrication, are practically indestructible, and even cut down skid-risks. Maybe it'll be heavier frames — Buick has the heaviest of any car of its price. Or maybe many of the "extra touches" Buick so freely applies — safety-latches on rear doors and Two-Way Direction Signals with automatic cut-off. You get all of these things now in Buick. Get them with the plus of Buick quality of materials and workmanship — get them at a price that suggests a six instead of an eight. So it's easy to start enjoying future "new features" right now. Just go try a Buick. Look it over, inside and out. And get the prices. Even if you've been buying in the lowest-price field you'll find it takes less than you think to step up to a Buick. SPREADING NAZI BLESSINGS
HITLER shows his hand again, and a heavy hand it is. There is now something rotten in the State of Denmark! It is the Nazi system. The most barbarous government in Europe, except possibly Stalin's, grabs an ancient center of civilization as fine as the modern world has produced. Blameless Denmark will be a part of the Nazi empire from now on, unless the democratic Allies are able to make Hitler disgorge his prey.
Norway also, another free and enlightened modern state, seems doomed. But that is less certain, because it is better able than Denmark to make some resistance, and it can count on help from Britain, and probably later from Sweden.
So the war spreads. It begins to assume the proportions of another World War. Very likely the Balkans will be sucked in again before long. And then what of Russia and Italy? And what of Belgium, Holland and Switzerland? Nobody knows how far this modern Napoleon will go, or try to go, if he succeeds in his latest kidnapping enterprise.
And America? We don't like to think about it. We are determined to stay out this time, in spite of outraged feelings and provocations, if it is humanly possible to do so—and probably it is. But nobody can tell us any more that we shouldn't sympathize with the democracies and express our anger at the brutal destruction of free and unoffending nations. That wouldn't be human.

AMERICAN OPERA
EDWARD JOHNSON, manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, says "What this country needs is training opportunities for operatic composers." That would lead naturally to an outpouring of American operas.
It may sound grand, to a public rapidly becoming "opera-conscious." But is this country really ready, or anywhere near ready, for such a musical blossoming?
The nations that have produced most of the famous operas so far are those with an old and ripe musical culture. And the operas written in America have not, for the most part, made much of a hit. People say "Yes, yes—that's good. We're coming along musically." And then they go right on patronizing the old European operas.
It may be that for operatic purposes a theme and its associations must be so old as to be on the edge of decay. Perhaps we're too new here, as yet, to get so far away from real life.
It's fine to sell all our old ships—if we use the money for new ones to take their places.
Nazi Germany should take somebody its size.

"There's a certain pedestrian quality about modern matrimony," says a writer. Yes, we've noticed how husbands and wives walk out on each other.

Seems as though every few weeks we are given additional proof that regardless of a nation's attitude on war it should be strong and ready to fight at a moment's notice. ## Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
TRADE PARLEYS WITH ALLIES
WASHINGTON—The State Department soon will issue a statement regarding extremely important conversations which have been taking place behind closed doors with two representatives of the Allies. They were held in an effort to straighten out some of the irritations in U. S.-Allied relations, such as the curtailment of tobacco purchases, the stoppage of fruit shipments, the violation of trade treaties.
Regarding these, the conferences have been a disappointment. But one most significant point has been developed. For the British and French have shown by implication that they have given up any expectation that this country might enter the war.
At every point, British Frank Ashton-Kwatkin and French Charles Rist have been courteous but firm. Their theme in effect has been, "After all, we are fighting a war. Trade with you must come second. American sympathy will not kill the enemy."
They have made a few trifling concessions, but even while the talks were going on, the British aggravated the problem by loading on further trade restrictions. This made Cordell Hull boil, fearful of adverse effects on the Senate debate over trade agreement. But when Ashton-Kwatkin cabled London urging moderation, the British remained unmoved.
The opening conversation here was typical. Henry F. Grady, Assistant Secretary of State in charge of trade agreements, began with a statement of U. S. grievances against the Allied blockade. When he had finished, Ashton-Kwatkin wrung his fleshy hands and said:
"I hardly know how to reply in the face of these—what shall I say—animadversions against my government. After all—ah—we are fighting with our backs to the wall, so to speak."
When U. S. officials suggested that this was a short-sighted policy which would antagonize the American people, the Allied representatives made it clear that they were not courting U. S. favor and not hoping for U. S. entrance into the war.
KENNEDY'S SENATE POLL
This attitude is based partly on reports of growing anti-war sentiment in this country. For instance, Ambassador Joe Kennedy told British officials how he had taken a private toll of the Senate, and found 22 Senators who had voted for lifting the embargo last fall who would vote the other way if the issue were presented now.
In view of this sentiment, the Allies have decided they have nothing to gain by weakening their blockade or increasing their expenditure of dollars in the United States.
Any concessions made will be in their own interest. The British Tommy must have tobacco, and the British Government will probably resume buying American flue-cured tobacco, either from stock held by Commodity Credit Corporation, or from the new crop when it comes in. But in order to conserve dollar exchange, they are looking for some means of taking the tobacco on credit.
This, of course, would run up against the Johnson Act, and might start again the old World War system of pumping U. S. money into Europe.

DIET AND HEALTH
Endorses Bowling as Healthy Sport
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Is bowling a healthy sport for women?
I thoroughly believe in bowling as a healthy sport, both for men and women. As a form of exercise it has good psychological features. Interest in the game makes people forget they are taking exercise and they are, therefore, not so likely to give up easily, which they would do with bedroom exercises or walking, both of which get somewhat monotonous.
It is splendid exercise for the back, the arms, the thighs and the forelegs, and it cultivates co-ordination of the muscles with the eyes and the sense of equilibrium.
It is good for a problem child of any age because it promotes companionship and good sportsman-ship.
Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.
ship. It should appeal to women because it is a good way to streamline the body, and it stretches many muscles which otherwise would not be used.
Curiously enough, it reduces fat people and increases the weight of thin people. Neck, chest, back and thigh muscles that are becoming stringy and unbecoming fill out into rounded contours. It improves carriage and complexion.
That women themselves are finding it valuable is shown by the fact that there are 500 women bowling teams in the country, and that nearly one-fifth of all bowlers are women; I am told that there are over 76,000 women bowlers in the United States.
Diets Suggested to Improve Skin
What diets are recommended for the skin?
Nature's remedies are probably the best skin tonics. Sunshine, fresh air, water and cleanliness are included in these. For complexion and health, the skin needs sulphur, iron, vitamin A and probably a newly-discovered vitamin which is present in liver.
Vegetables and fruits are substances which contain the natural minerals and vitamins that are skin tonics. Onions may be said to be good skin foods; the onion is rich in sulphur and if eaten raw probably is more beneficial than when cooked.
Among other foods that are good sources of sulphur are sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, red cabbage. Foods which contain iron are watercress, spinach, prunes, raisins, apricots, parsley, olives, dandelion leaves and nearly all dark green vegetables. Vitamin A is supplied by carrots, which contain carotene, the basic substance from which vitamin A is manufactured. Do not peel the carrots because the surface, as with most vegetables, contains larger amounts of vitamins than the pulp. Almonds and Brazil nuts contain oils which are said to be skin tonics. Plenty of water is also advisable.
How to Select Children's Shoes
(1) Measure both feet to be sure that they are both well fitted; that the shoes are wide enough but not too wide.
(2) Stockings should be long enough so that they fit the foot loosely.
(3) Give the toes room to expand.
(4) The instep should be fitted snugly but not be binding. The heel should also be fitted snugly so that it does not chafe.
EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

THE KILLER SPEAKS
RICHARD HOUGHTON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION
CHAPTER THIRTY
I INTENDED to dump the box of knives in the river and thus destroy this damning evidence against Jerry, but I soon saw that the job wasn't going to be as easy as I thought.
For one thing, I should have wrapped the box in paper. It stood out white in the darkness, a very suspicious object for anyone to be carrying along the streets at this time of night.
The trees on this street sheltered me for only two blocks. I decided to cut across into an alley. To do that I must cross in the center of a block. There was someone on the opposite sidewalk and two cars on the street. I held the box behind me in the shadows and waited.
A man came walking down the sidewalk on which I stood. He stared at me curiously as he passed, but said nothing.
My mouth was dry. Belzer would tell the police the knives had been stolen from him in a shoe box. Would this man remember he had seen me with a shoe box?
I encouraged myself with the thought that he was a stranger, only half seeing me in the shadows. He might not be able to identify me.
The street was clear at last. I hurried across, but avoided running, and entered the dark alley. I stumbled against a tin can, and stopped in fright when someone close to me said, "What's that?"
Another voice answered, "Probably just a cat." Footsteps moved away from the opposite side of the high board fence. I heard a screen door slam in a nearby house.
I moved on, more cautiously. When I reached the other end of the alley I found the street in front of me brilliantly lighted. Officer McClure was only a half block away, coming toward me. I knew he probably would look into the alley.
There was a garbage can close by. I set the box on the ground behind it, quickly brushed my clothes, straightened my hat and stepped out into the street. When McClure passed me, I was looking into a drug store window.
I didn't dare go back into the alley until the officer was out of sight. In the meantime, as I stared into the drugstore I was looking straight at a public telephone booth, which reminded me of Jerry's last request. The episode of the knives had driven it completely from my mind.
He had said: "Get to a telephone, Bill. See if there's someone who'll put up bail or bond for me."
That was four hours ago. Jerry was behind the bars by this time, wondering why he didn't hear from me.
After a dozen calls to friends whom I knew had money, I began to realize what it meant to be poor, and in trouble. Everyone was sympathetic, but that was as far as it went.
At last I tried Harvey McGuire. He promised to do all that he could. I left it in his hands and walked out of the store. The street was fairly deserted—the best I could expect at this time of night.
I had purchased a newspaper in the store. I wrapped it quickly around my shoe box and crossed the street to another alley. I was approaching the riverfront.
Footsteps were following me down the alley. I looked over my shoulder. Between me and the light of the street behind me approached the dark shape of a large man. It might be McClure. I thought in alarm, and started to run. My pursuer started to run, too!
I was burdened by the box. I stumbled, but I reached the street first and whirled into the nearest doorway, which happened to be the office of one of the river boat lines, open all night. I looked back into the street. The man who had been running after me was not Officer McClure. He looked like a typical river front ruffian. Now that his quarry apparently had escaped, he assumed a nonchalant, innocent air and wandered off.

"What can I do for you?" asked the young man behind the counter. He was in his shirt sleeves, with a green eyeshade pulled low over his eyes, and he came to the counter and rested both hands on the edge expectantly.

"N-nothing," I told him. "I was going to send these—these flowers by boat, but I guess I'll try parcel post."

He gave me a queer look. There seemed to be a smile lurking behind it. I think he had seen my apprehensive glance into the street, noticed the shadowy figure of a man moving away, and decided that I didn't want to confess I had been running away from what looked like a possible holdup.

I was willing to let it go at that. Out in the street again, I crossed to the parapet which guarded traffic from the river below. I set my package on the flat top of the concrete wall and stared down into the black water. Little waves lapped the wall softly and glistened with the reflection of distant lights.

Now that I was here a new fear assailed me. All I had to do was to drop the knives, crumple the box and drop it in some alley. But I knew that I would be destroying evidence. I believed it was false evidence, but the police—and certainly Belzer—would not look at it in that way. They might never learn I had done it, but on the other hand I had been seen by too many people. Surely someone would remember.

If I dropped the knives, I could never get them again. The mud on the bottom of the river was deep.

I looked back up the street. It was not far to my studio, and the way was fairly dark. Suppose I took the knives home with me and hid them? There would be nothing so final in that.

"And," I suddenly thought to myself, "I'd be doing nothing worse than Belzer did. He'd have nothing on me."

I tucked the box under my arm again, skirted one of the riverfront sheds and started homeward. Then I thought, "Why not walk openly? I'll seem less suspicious if I act less suspiciously."

I was shaking as I passed McClure. I couldn't help it, but I managed to give him a pleasant "Good evening!"

He grunted and looked surprised. I don't think he recognized me. For a nerve-racking moment I thought he was going to stop and question me—he gave my package such a scowl—but I passed safely on. Five minutes later, wet with perspiration, and my knees weak under me, I was inside my own front door and up the stairs to my studio.

I set the box on the table and shut the door. With a gasp of relief I sank into a chair, but the next moment I was shocked to my feet by the ringing of the telephone.

"Hello, Butch," said a familiar voice on the other end of the line. "I've been trying to ring you back for half an hour."

"B-Belzer!"

"None other. I've been thinking over your proposition. Maybe you have got something. If it's good enough I'll hold my story about your pal's knives until next day. It can't get away from me. And in the meantime, if you can convince me—"

"I'm not in a convincing mood," I told him. "Write your story if you want. Tomorrow it won't be worth the paper it's printed on—and as a police reporter you'll be washed up, Belzer—washed up!"

"Aw, now don't be that way, Butch. I'm coming over to see you."

"You're—what?"

"I'm coming over to see you—now. We'll argue this thing out."

I dropped the receiver on the hook and looked frantically around for a place to hide the box.

DEFENDERS GAIN HAMAR, BERGEN FROM INVADERS

Another Division Takes Arms To Cooperate With Britain In Expulsion Campaign

(Continued from Page One) all communications with headquarters except by air. The first German successes at Narvik was achieved because of an apparent misunderstanding, Hambro disclosed. Major Vikund Quisling, named by the Nazis as head of a Norwegian puppet government, sent instructions to Colonel Sundlo, Norwegian commander at Narvik, to cooperate with the Germans. Sundlo complied, but a short while later the Norwegian high command supplanted Sundlo with Major Omdahl and ordered the latter to halt the Germans. Omdahl went into action immediately, taking the Germans by surprise. Sundlo was arrested. A new Norwegian defense line now has been established near the Djupvik station on the Narvik railway, where Omdahl and his troops await reinforcements.

New Attack Halted An attempted German attack on Elverum, latest seat of the Norwegian government, was repulsed, according to Hambro. Norwegian troops burnt bridges behind the German invaders from Hamar southward, effectively cutting their communications. Meanwhile, fearing that its neutrality may be short-lived, Sweden completed preparations for any eventuality. Reservists flocked to the colors as Swedish government officials reiterated: "Sweden is determined to defend its independence and integrity."

NAZIS DECLARE GRIP UNBROKEN

(Continued from Page One) gen and other cities have been recaptured, and that Oslo was threatened with shelling by British warships. The reports were termed "a systematic campaign of lies intended to stiffen the backs of the Norwegians and cover up annihilating political and military blunders and defeats." It was emphatically denied that the Reich has sent a note to Sweden demanding free passage for German troops. German authorities proudly claimed that all efforts of the Allied fleets to rescue Norway from German troops so far have failed. In addition, they claimed, the Anglo-French naval forces have received a severe battering from German air force bombers even before any fighting between Allied and German forces has been launched on the Scandinavian mainland.

The British and French navies, according to the Germans, apparently split into three units for a triple dash toward the Norwegian coast with the aim of landing expeditionary forces at one or more points and compelling the Germans to fight it out on Norwegian soil.

What hopes the Allies may have of ousting the German forces from their fortified positions are not known in Berlin, but German authorities said they believed the Allies are inclined to discredit the German assertion that the Norwegian coast already has been transformed into an invincible defense position.

"Second Gallipoli" Any British and counter-claims put forward by both sides, the true situation will probably not be clear until after the war, but it appeared certain today that both the Allies and Germans have sustained heavy blows and that both probably will claim victory.

But above all else, Berlin quarters emphasized, the fact remains that unless the Allies are able to seize Norway they will have fought "in vain." The German navy, it was pointed out, is the smallest unit of the German war machine. Thus whatever losses it may suffer in the major naval action still progressing are not causing undue concern in Berlin.

In any event, it was contended, the final decision with the Allies will be sought elsewhere by Germany, but German sources said the point at present most interesting to Norway, Denmark and Europe's neutral nations is this:

Are the Anglo-French forces capable of carrying out the political promises of the Allies?

European Bulletins

STOCKHOLM—The British, French and Polish ministers to Norway were reported today to have taken refuge in Sweden and will make their temporary headquarters in Stockholm.

NEW YORK—The Oslo radio station ceased transmission abruptly at 7:11 a. m. (EST) today, RCA advised the National Broadcasting Corporation, NBC reported.

LONDON—Belgium has no intention of appealing for Allied aid in the event her neutrality is violated, Reuters and Exchange Telegraph dispatches from Brussels said today. The reports said it was stated authoritatively that the Belgian government has no intention of modifying the position of neutrality that it has adopted.

STOCKHOLM—The newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported today that the Norwegian government has left its temporary headquarters at Elverum for Nybergund, 15 miles from the Swedish border and northeast of Elverum. King Haakon, said the report, remained at Elverum.

HONOLULU, T. H.—A detachment of British soldiers has been stationed on Fanning Island in the Equatorial Pacific, presumably to prevent German seizure of the island, according to information from the American cable ship Dickinson. During the World War Fanning Island was raided by a German force.

PARIS—The newspaper Paris Midi today reported the Dutch are evacuating towns along the German frontier as a result of increased activity of German troops between the Rhine and the Moselle. Dispatches from Amsterdam said the Netherlands air line, K.L.M., has grounded all its planes.

STOTTEMIRE SPENDS DAY FISHING, BUT HIS CATCH WAS ONLY TROT-LINES

"Dude" Stottemire, who lived near the Scioto river bridge and is well known in the fishing circle around town, reported Thursday that he has had his worst day ever.

He spent all day Wednesday fishing in the river and never got a bite. But he did get something everytime he drew his line in.

"I never caught so many trot-lines in all my life," he said. "Everytime I drew my line in there was a trot line on it. Seems as though everyone in town has a trot-line across that river."

Then "Dude" talked about the weather. "Something must be coming," he said, "because everytime something does the fish stop biting and I didn't get a single nibble all day. I wonder what's on its way."

ALLIES TO SINK ALL NAZI SHIPS IN NORTH AREA

Norway and Denmark merely drew the unlucky numbers in Hitler's "sinister lottery" of aggression, Churchill declared.

Churchill dealt at length with how the configuration of the Norwegian coast assisted Germany in running the Allied blockade. He described how the admiralty long urged laying a mine barrier and reluctantly decided to interrupt "the endless procession of German and neutral ships carrying contraband."

The first lord detailed Germany's use of the mine-laying as an excuse to invade "innocent neutral countries—there are others not yet affected—who had helped them in so many ways."

With regard to Norway's resistance, Churchill said:

"In their wild and mountainous country the Norwegians should be able to maintain a vigorous and prolonged resistance, costing enormous labors to those who wish to subject them to tyranny."

"What an example it is of the danger of supposing that friendly relations with Germany are the slightest protection against a murderous onslaught the moment Germany thinks an advantage can be obtained."

"If Norway had not been so strict and severe in enforcing its neutrality against us, it would have been very easy to give them more timely and greater support than is now possible."

Allies Not To Blame

"There is not the slightest use in blaming the Allies for not being able to give substantial protection to neutrals when we are held at arm's length by those countries until they have been actually attacked on a scientifically prepared war by Germany."

"I trust that Norway's strict observation of neutrality, which contributed to her sufferings and affected the aid we can give her, will be meditated on by other countries, who tomorrow or a week or a month hence may find themselves of equally elaborately worked-out staff plans for their destruction and enslavement."

"But we shall aid them (Norway) to the best of our ability and shall conduct war with them and make peace only when their rights are restored."

"Everyone must recognize that it is reckless gambling which has flung the whole German fleet into the open and savage seas of war. "We and the French are stronger than the German navy. We have enough to maintain control of the Mediterranean at the same time as we carry out operations in the North Sea."

"On the very much smaller forces of the German navy, most grievous losses have already been inflicted."

"Four German cruisers have been sunk and a number of destroyers together with some U-boats have been destroyed, all since Sunday. "The German navy must be regarded as deeply mutilated in its extremely important if not indispensable cruiser element."

"Our submarines have by no means been asleep. They have taken a heavy toll of German transport and store ships crossing to Scandinavia."

"We are not going to allow the enemy to supply their troops across those waters with impunity. I hope we shall take an unceasing toll of ships attempting to bring supplies to the forces."

There were increasing authoritative predictions in London that if the naval engagement now under way in the Skagerrak-Kattegat area turned out to be a severe German defeat, the position of the German forces in Norway would become grave.

Low Country Menaced In that event, it was believed, Chancellor Hitler possibly might strike swiftly against the low countries—Holland and Belgium—where latest dispatches reflected growing uneasiness.

It was emphasized, however, that the Anglo-French Allies have completed plans to meet this or any other eventuality which might arise from the Scandinavian crisis.

Reports from Stockholm said that heavy firing, increasing in intensity after 3 a. m., was audible off Hallowe and Smoenen, indicating that the battle between Allied and German naval units in the Skagerrak was still progressing with renewed vigor.

The Rome radio stated that 5,000 German warplanes and 600

Hitler Collects Fourth Capital

ANOTHER famed European capital and center of a national culture has been added to his collection by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in the bloodless seizure of Denmark and its chief city, Copenhagen. Copenhagen is the fourth European capital to fall under Nazi rule. Others are Vienna, Austria; Prague, Czechoslovakia, and Warsaw, Poland. A few hours later Oslo, Norway, became the fifth capital to fall into German hands.

Mrs. Rogers said she did not "want" to endure the steaming Washington summer, but believed members should sacrifice personal comfort to the good of the people.

Disregarding these sentiments, senate Democratic Leader Barkley told President Roosevelt plans were made for an adjournment about June 1, and other Democrats declared they saw no reason for carrying the session through the summer.

"It strikes me," observed Sen. Connally (D) Tex., that there is more apt to be a peace with this congress at home."

Sen. Norris (I) Neb., the only remaining senator who voted against American entry into the World War, expressed similar sentiments.

"I'm not afraid to leave here," he said. "I believe the President sincerely is working to keep us out of war and that he will do it."

British aircraft were participating in this battle, according to a Reuters dispatch. (A Rome radio broadcast picked up by the Columbia Broadcasting System in New York stated: "The biggest air and naval battle in history is reported raging on a front extending 600 miles north of the Frisian Islands. One hundred and fifty Allied naval units are reported to have engaged 100 German ships, while 600 Allied airplanes are fighting German planes over the North Sea."

Ships Instructed

While the battle raged, the British government broadcast orders to all Norwegian and Danish ships to proceed to Allied ports, promising they would be protected en route.

The broadcast added that a German message instructing the vessels to proceed to Italy, or Spain or other neutral countries "should be disregarded."

Latest advices received in London said the British had sent a battle fleet rushing into Oslo Fjord. Other dispatches had stated the British had landed troops which recaptured the cities of Trondheim and Bergen, but these reports were subject to doubt in view of lack of official confirmation.

Some estimates in London indicated that in the fighting at sea as many as 30 Allied and German warships were sunk or disabled.

A complete rout of the German forces with several warships, transports and supply-laden merchantmen sunk or disabled, was reported in Oslo Fjord.

Some reports stated that the 5,000-ton German cruiser Emden was included among the German losses. These advices were not confirmed, however. The Emden carried 534 officers and men whose fate was not known.

Wave after wave of German aircraft today made mass attacks on Scapa Flow and the Scottish Coast, but the British air ministry announced that resultant air battles cost the Nazis many planes.

surprise when Norway offered stern resistance to the German invasion. He may have nearly bowled over by the subsequent enterprise of the British fleet in steaming through the heavily mined Skagerrak and engaging a huge Nazi transport convoy.

The German press and officialdom has delighted of late in referring to Winston Churchill as "that little old man in the British admiralty" and holding up the British navy to scorn and ridicule. Time and time again German propagandists have charged that in air raids on Scapa Flow and the Firth of Forth, knockout blows had been given to the fleet which today is carrying on the traditions of Nelson.

If the Germans could be believed, there was hardly a warship of whole bottom left in the British navy to be sent forth to battle. The sheer audacity of Hitler and his military advisers in inviting a clash with Albion's formidable fleet indicates that they almost believed this themselves.

There is every reason to believe Hitler expected a walkover in Norway. He has never moved unless he expected one. He had it ridiculously easy in Czechoslovakia, quickly overwhelmed Poland by sheer force of aerial numbers and took Denmark by lifting his little finger.

Norway, however, has proved a formidable stumbling block. In substantiation of the belief that the Fuehrer never anticipated it, consider the plight of Major Vidkun Quisling, pro-Nazi officer of the Norwegian army who was appointed prime minister of Norway the moment Hitler's first soldier set foot on Norwegian soil.

Hitler obviously expected that King Haakon of Norway would accept this rump regime as his legal government representative and join King Victor Emmanuel of Italy in the roster of European puppet monarchs.

But the tall, determined Viking king was of another mind, threw the full weight of his prestige and personality behind continued resistance to Germany and the sudden flush of enthusiasm in Nazi Germany for Quisling's regime has evaporated in the dust of battle.

The test of strength now under way in Scandinavia is a major one. If it goes against him, Hitler doubtless will shift the scene of action elsewhere, probably in the Lowlands. But in the meantime he has learned for the first time that Nazi gains cannot always be won without fighting.

DEMURRER FILED AGAINST $2,712 SUIT FOR SERVICE

Fred C. Clark, South Court Street, executor of the will of the late Elizabeth Roger Baldwin, filed a demurrer Wednesday in the court suit brought against him by Miss Hattie Butler, West Franklin Street, who is seeking $2,712 for services rendered to Mrs. Baldwin prior to her death.

In his demurrer, Clark seeks to have the case dismissed from the court on the grounds that the case does not fall in the jurisdiction of the Common Pleas Court and that there are no facts stated in the petition which show cause for action.

Miss Butler brought suit after she had asked Clark as executor of the estate to pay her for the services which she was employed to perform by Mrs. Baldwin. On Clark's refusal she filed suit.

BRIGGS DOES MARATHON

Harry Briggs, manager of the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association, is certainly having a busy day Thursday. And in the process is adding a lot of mileage to his car. He left the Farm Bureau Thursday for a drive to Ashland, Kentucky, to inspect a herd of cattle and other livestock. But he's not finished when he gets back for he has to "putty" up and be in Columbus Thursday night for a meeting of Production Credit Association of which he is a director. If Briggs were a bit smaller, he might be told late tonight, "Little man you've had a busy day."

CIO AND AKRON COMPANY TO START NEGOTIATIONS

AKRON, April 11—Striking members of the CIO United Rubber Workers Union in the General Tire and Rubber Company plant at Akron met today to name a committee to negotiate with the management.

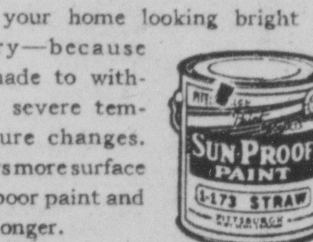

The URW local in the plant voted yesterday to call a strike immediately, because, local President Joseph Childs said, the company was "unwilling" to adjust grievances in accord with a company-union agreement. The vote for the strike was 640 to 150. The company employs approximately 1,200 in the Akron plant.

Picket lines were thrown out around the plant immediately after the strike vote, but foremen and superintendents were allowed to pass today.

Childs said that the union was anxious to settle all differences as soon as possible. Company officials had no comment to make.

mized action along the entire front.

All radios in northern France were silenced early today as the result of a flight of German observation planes over France.

The German planes were intercepted by French pursuit craft and a hot "dog fight" took place, resulting in two Nazi planes being shot to earth. There were no French losses.

This morning's official communique reported: "It was a calm night on the Lorraine-Alsace Front."

"Two enemy reconnaissance airplanes were brought down early this morning by our pursuit planes."

It is the general feeling in Paris that the real war at last has begun, and that it is going to spread rapidly.

The reaction has been one of cheerfulness.

Party groups of the chamber of deputies met this morning and agreed not to interpellate the government at this afternoon's session. Instead, Premier Paul Reynaud will speak, giving a resume of the battle news, following which the chamber will adjourn.

Reynaud this morning received American Ambassador William C. Bullitt, who late last night returned to France after a lengthy visit to the United States.

The premier also received Turkish Ambassador Erkin; French Minister to Sofia Blondel and M. Naggari, French ambassador to Russia.

NEVER MISSES OPPORTUNITY TO SPEAK WELL OF "VENDOL"

This Columbus resident is grateful for wonderful relief obtained by taking this popular medicine. Relieved constipation, indigestion, gas in stomach.

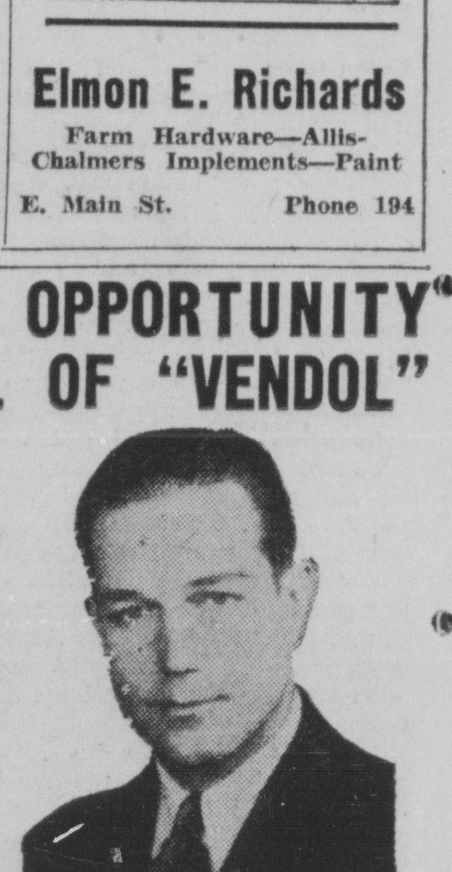

"I was a victim of constipation for a long time and took about all the things suggested to me for it but Vendol has proven the finest thing I ever tried," said Mr. William Johnson, well known citizen of 236 Oak St., Columbus, Ohio, to the Vendol Man who now has headquarters at Mykrantz Drug Store for a short time.

"When I wasn't regular it caused many troubles. My head would ache, tongue showed a white coating, breath came bad, had a brassy taste in my mouth every morning and I just felt tired and sluggish all the time.

"Another result of this constipation was indigestion, sour stomach, gas, acid risings, bloating, and 'heartburn' and got me to where I hated to have to eat knowing how I'd suffer later.

"Vendol was recommended to me by a friend, Mr. E. L. Williams, of Columbus, so I began taking it along with the little Vendol laxative tablets and that was exactly what I needed.

"It cleared out my bowels thoroughly, so I kept taking it and with this complete evacuation I began to feel like myself again and now I never have a headache, dizzy feeling, pain or stomach up-

DIZ AND GABBY AT ODDS AGAIN

Dean Quoted As Stating No One Can Tell Him When To Go To Bed

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11—A showdown between Dizzy Dean and Manager Gabby Hartnett was believed imminent today as the pitcher and the Chicago Cubs, united briefly after Dean's long holdout, went separate ways again.

When Dean balked and removed his uniform at Topeka yesterday because he was fined $100 for breaking training rules, Hartnett purchased him a railroad ticket and ordered him to proceed directly to Chicago.

Dean, however, exchanged the ticket for one to St. Louis, saying he would later drive to Chicago to see the Cub owner, P. K. Wrigley. Both Hartnett and Dean washed their hands of each other, and Dean issued a series of seemingly contradictory statements.

Technically, Dean was fined for turning in at 12:45 a. m. instead of at the midnight curfew Tuesday night. Actually, Hartnett said, it was for repeated violation of training rules. Dean was reported to have boasted publicly that "no one can tell me when to go to bed."

Dean was not formally suspended. After removing his uniform, he returned to the field yesterday and watched the St. Louis Browns beat the Cubs 15-3.

BIMELECH MAY FEATURE RACES AT KEENE LAND

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 11—Keeneland, the model horse-racing plant, opens today, and to the racing world in general the 11-day meet is a workout and a tryout for Bimelech, outstanding early favorite to win the Kentucky Derby.

Bimelech may go to the post twice during the 11 days, but he is a cinch to answer the bugle at least once—for Col. E. R. Bradley and his nontalkative trainer, William Hurley, want to "see if he can win the Kentucky Derby."

If he goes to the post but once by choice it will be in the $5,000 added Bluegrass Stakes, a three-year-old feature at a mile-and-an-eight, the nearest distance to the grueling mile-and-a-quarter he would experience at Churchill Downs in the May 4th classic for $75,000 added.

The Ben Ali handicap, at one-and-a-sixteenth, could include "big Bim," for its takes in three-year-olds and upward.

CITY, COUNTY MAY ASK TAX LEVY TO HELP FINANCE RELIEF

OFFICIALS TALK ABOUT GROWING UNPAID ACCOUNT

Circleville Is In Debt To Commissioners, Who Are Also In Red

MANY FIGURES QUOTED

Suggestion Made That Aid Job Be Returned To Municipality

A situation that finds Circleville and Pickaway County facing a vital problem without money to care for its relief responsibilities was discussed at length Wednesday evening when the city council and the county commissioners met in City Hall. The outcome of the conference was that both are considering emergency action which will put more revenue into their treasuries for care of the needy.

Council met as a committee and not as an official body, so official business could not be transacted. But councilmen present promised the commissioners that definite action would be taken at next Wednesday's regular meeting with liquidation of the city's relief debt to the county treasury to be considered.

Several members of council, including President John Goeller, Frank Lynch and Clarence Helvering, and Solicitor Joe W. Adkins were not present, sickness and business keeping the members away. Neither was Mayor W. B. Cady on hand to participate in the discussion. Councilmen taking part were W. M. Reid, Donald Mason, Julius Helwagen and George Groom. Clerk Fred Nicholas was also on hand as an interested spectator. Representing the county were the commissioners, Ralph May, C. E. Wright and John Keller, Auditor Forrest Short and D. H. Marcy, director, and Miss Gretchen Moeller, case supervisor, from the relief office.

$2,020 Bill Important
The meeting was decided on

Monday when Solicitor Adkins met with the commissioners to discuss an unpaid $2,020 bill presented to council by the county for the city's share of relief administered under the city-county system in January and February. The bill came across the street over a month ago, but there is no money in the city treasury to take care of it. And the outlook is not bright, according to the official family. Another bill for March, estimated at $1,950, will soon be submitted to the city, making its total debt to the county $3,970.

There will be additional bills for each month through July, Director Marcy said, until $20,000 in relief bonds are paid off in August from money coming in from beer, malt, wort and admissions and a public utility 1 percent tax. After that this money will go into the relief account, but still will not be sufficient to carry the entire relief cost. City and county must devise some means to pay their bills.

Tax Levy Possible
In an effort to pay off the balance due the county it is highly probable that council will decide to put a one and one-half mill real estate levy on the ballot May 14, if time remains for that to be done. The commissioners, it is understood, are ready also to submit a one and one-half mill levy to the voters. The city and county, it is estimated, could raise $53,000 for relief from this issue. However, both parties are concerned over success of such an effort. In the county, officials believe, a 65 percent vote is needed to pass a tax levy for relief; in the city the percentage is 55 percent.

The city stands ready to issue bonds in anticipation of payment of delinquent taxes if the one and one-half mill levy fails to carry or cannot be put on the ballot. Just what the county would do is not certain.

Marcy pointed out that as of April 10 the county's relief account is overdrawn by $3,000 when unpaid bills are considered. This fact makes payment of the city's delinquency all the more important, because the county needs all the money it can gather to keep itself from sinking deeper into the red.

May Return Task
Commissioner Wright declared that he is ready now to turn the city's relief back to Circleville for administration so that the county will not have to stand the brunt of additional debt. "I am ready right now," he told the group, "to put into effect the 30-day clause of our contract that gives either party the right to end our agreement." The contract was signed in July, 1939, when an agreement was reached wherein the county's relief office should administer the city's task. Both parties were to share the expense.

The possibility looms that the commissioners may vote to invoke this clause at their meeting Monday, although Commissioners May and Keller appeared ready to await the council's action of next Wednesday.

Marcy declared that should the city take over its own relief work that expenses would mount because approximately $500 a month would have to be paid to the county to help carry on its sewing and surplus commodities projects and WPA certification which cover city and county. This would be in addition to the relief orders that the city would have to issue.

Officials, city and county, agree that the relief problem can be administered more cheaply under a cooperative plan.

Opinions Expressed
The entire relief program came in for discussion during the meeting with nearly all persons present expressing opinions. Marcy stated that over $1,000,000 is coming into Pickaway County each year for relief of all classes, including WPA, blind pensions, mothers pensions, age pensions, CCC, aid for dependent children, and AAA and other payments to farm operators. The latter amounts to about half of the total, the director said.

Miss Moeller, asked concerning the willingness of some of the relief clients to try to help themselves, declared that in her work she found those who did not put forth individual effort to be the exception rather than the rule. "Those who won't help themselves have always been that way," she said.

A new ruling that cuts pay for relief laborers from 30 cents an hour for an eight hour day to 25 cents an hour was announced by Marcy.

Marcy revealed numerous figures concerning relief, the amounts being somewhat enlightening to all present. He discussed January, February, March and the first half of April.

In January, Marcy reported, the relief expense was $8,556.40, the city share being $3,665.49 and the county $4,910.91, the load being 583 cases at an average cost of $14.66; February, total cost $10,706.06, city's share $4,614.58, county's $6,091.58, load 883 cases and average of each case $12; March, total cost $8,403.51, city's share $3,295.51, county's $5,108; case load 651 and average cost $12.83; April, to date, total cost $3,561.38, city's share $1,370.04, county's $2,191.34, city's cases 218, county's 212. The April figure is $1,179.07 less than for the same period in March, indicating that with the change in weather that work in private industry, farm labor and WPA has opened up.

Averages Disclosed

The average number of persons in relief families now receiving aid is 4.1 in the county and 3.7 in the city.

The director broke down his relief administration figures to inform the group how much was being spent for food as one item and other actual relief including rent, clothes, fuel, medicine and other similar items in another item. In January $9.26 was spent for each family for food and $5.40 for the other items; in February $8.36 for food and $3.64 for other relief; in March $8.17 for food and $4.16 for other relief; in April $5.67 for food and $2.61 for other aid, fuel bills being cut considerably in this month.

Marcy said that an important bill that comes in each month covers surgical and medical care. This amount is between $800 and $1,000 monthly.

The director also said that the lowest possible figure that the relief load might be brought to would be 280 cases. This figure is the normal load during summer months figured over a period of years.

Councilman Reid, summing up the city's case, declared that council doesn't question a single figure as disclosed by the relief office, but is concerned in "just where the money to pay the bills is coming from?"

BRITAIN CLAIMS GREAT SEA VICTORY

NORWEGIANS DRIVE NAZIS FROM KEY POINTS

HITLER OVERSTEPS HIMSELF

Adolf Hitler, the man who "never made a mistake" and in the eyes of the great masses of German people could do no wrong, has finally overreached himself.

This does not mean he is beaten. Not by a long shot. But by his ill-timed invasion of Denmark and Norway he has walked into what geographically and economically is virtually Great Britain's own battleground. Today his small but capable high seas fleet faces the possibility of total extinction by the British navy.

This potentiality even the Germans are not overlooking. But they say with confidence that the fleet has always been the weakest and last important arm of the Nazi military machine. They predict that

Britain herself will suffer heavily before this object is attained, if at all.

Yet it cannot be overlooked that Hitler, who for so long held his army in check along the Western Front and used his air force only to harry and annoy British naval bases, opened wide the floodgates of total warfare.

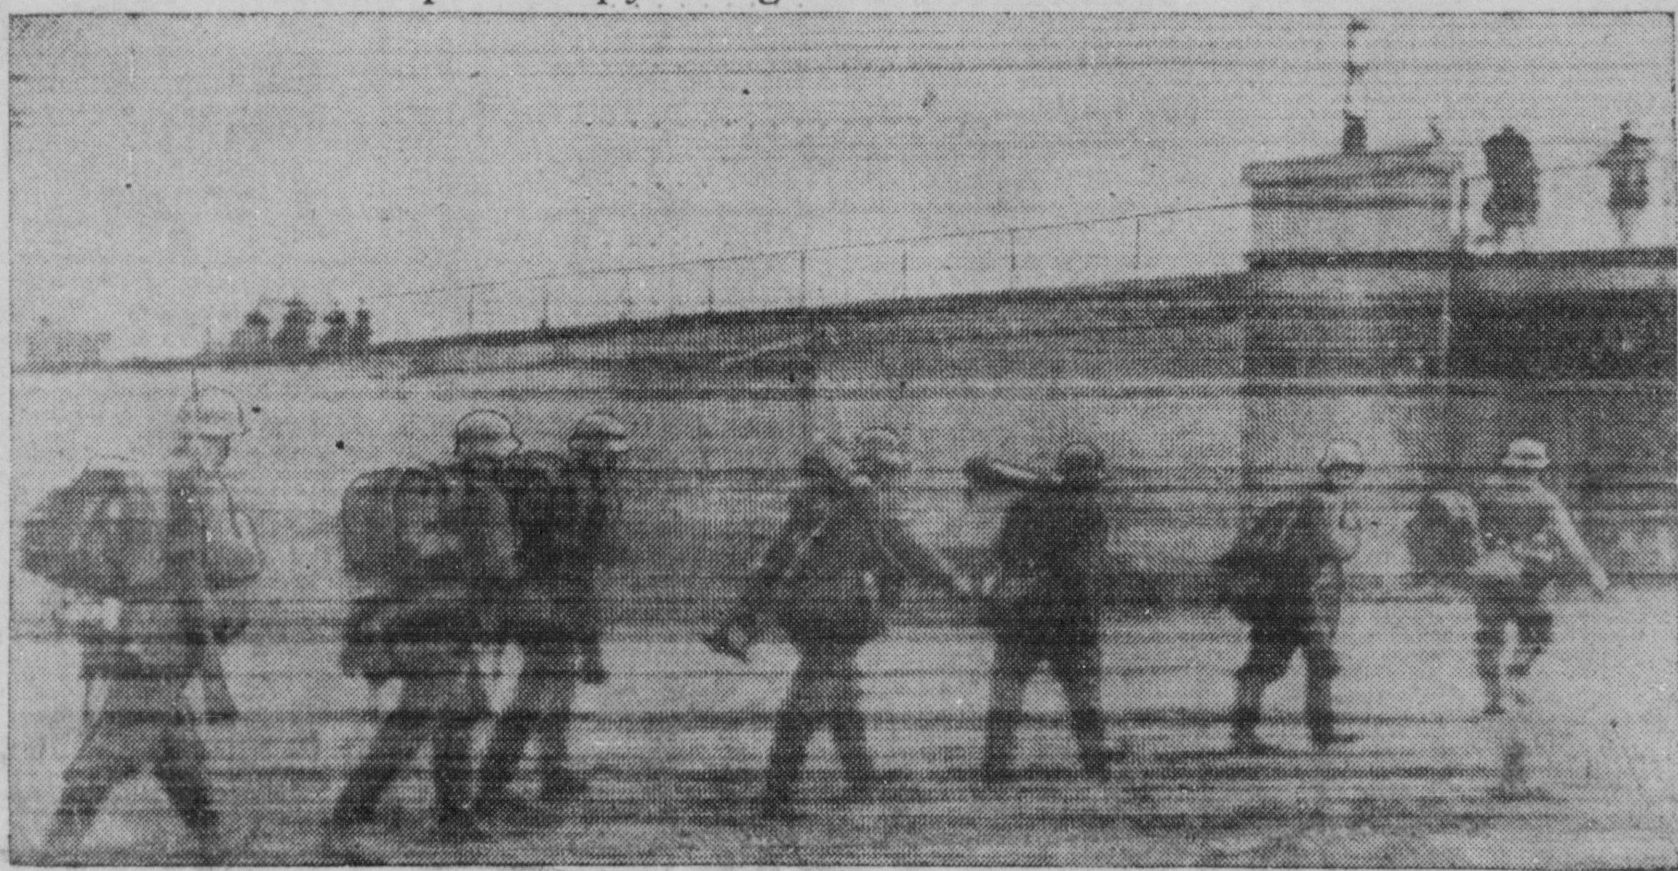

Most important, he made the challenge where Britain is or should be best prepared to meet it.

Censorship throughout Europe is stricter today than at any time since the war began. It is not easy to determine the exact nature either of the situation in Norway or of the violent air and sea battles raging off the Scandinavian coasts.

But it seems a safe assumption that Hitler was taken entirely by

Further Negotiations May Take Place, Berlin Hints;
No War Exists?

BERLIN, April 11—Germany today claimed to hold Norway firmly in its grip despite 48 hours of continuous fighting.

Further negotiations are expected to take place between the Nazi minister to Norway and King Haakon to "clear up German-Norwegian relations."

(Stockholm reported King Haakon formally refused to accept the puppet government at Oslo, set up by Norwegian Nazi leader Major Quisling, proclaiming that Norway would fight alongside the Anglo-French Allies.

A German foreign office spokesman denied that negotiations with Norway have been definitely broken off, emphasizing that "negotiations have not yet reached definite results."

"Germany considers the door still wide open," he declared.

The spokesman also stressed that no state of war exists between Norway and the Reich, inasmuch as Norway has not notified Germany to that effect.

Paris Reports Intensified Action Certain
"Any Day" With Germans Sending Strong Reinforcements Into Various Areas

PARIS, April 11—A prediction that there may be intensified action on the Western Front "any day now" was made today by a French war ministry spokesman as it was announced two German planes had been brought down by French pursuit craft.

The official spokesman revealed that the German army had placed certain units in "immediate attacking position," although he emphasized that this was not yet general along the whole Western Front.

WOMAN INJURED AS CAR MISSES ROUTE 56 CURVE

Mrs. John J. Kinney, 61, of Hyde Park, Cincinnati, suffered a fracture of the right shoulder at 11 a. m. Thursday when the car in which she was riding with her daughter missed a sharp curve in Route 56 near the Salt Creek Township school. The machine left the highway.

Mrs. Kinney, brought to Berger Hospital by Emmett Shupe, Salt Creek Township, was treated by Dr. Lloyd Jones who reported also that she had back bruises and cuts on an ear.

Her daughter, Mrs. W. R. LaForce, also of Cincinnati, was bruised about the face, but did not require hospitalization.

They were enroute to a funeral when the accident happened.

SAFETY DIRECTOR HURT

COLUMBUS, April 11—George Ward, Columbus safety director, suffered fractures of four ribs in an automobile accident Wednesday southwest of Wilmington. He was brought here during the night from Hale Hospital, Wilmington. Several Columbus newspapermen were injured in the mishap, none seriously however. ### 'CONGRESS MUST STAY ON JOB'

Republican Solons Start Cry; Nye Says Europe's War Must Be Watched

WASHINGTON, April 11—Demands that congress stay in session throughout the European war emergency—no matter how long it lasts—were sounded on both sides of Capitol Hill today.

Sens. Lodge (R) Mass., Capper (R) Kan., and Nye (R) N. D., made the appeal in the senate; Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R) Mass., led the movement in the house.

The demands ran counter to leadership plans for a June 1 adjournment, but the G. O. P. leaders insisted that as long as a critical situation exists in Europe, the welfare of America calls for congress to stay on the job.

"Congress should be here, national conventions or no national conventions, to watch over this country's foreign policy and to guard against any moves that might drag us into the conflict," said Nye.

Capper said "we must maintain

Another Division Takes Arms To Cooperate With Britain In Expulsion Campaign

RAIL ADVANCE HALTED

Sweden Takes Precautions, Many Troops Preparing For Emergency

STOCKHOLM, April 11—Norway mobilized another army division today and embarked on full military cooperation with Great Britain after ousting the German invaders from a number of strategic key points.

Shortly after noon the military situation appeared to be as follows:

Norwegian troops have reoccupied Hamar, the city first chosen as Norway's capital after the fall of Oslo.

The German advance along the northern railroad near Narvik has been halted. The newspaper Svenska Dagbladet reported without confirmation that British troops have dislodged the Germans from Narvik itself.

Announcement of Norway's latest successes in counter-acting the lightning German invasion was made by Carl J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, who is now in Stockholm.

After talking with members of his government by telephone, Hambro announced that the commander of Norwegian forces in the North had been authorized to mobilize the Sixth Division and to contact Great Britain's forces "at the earliest possible moment" for joint action against the Nazis.

Germans Isolated

Norwegian counter-action along the Narvik railroad was a surprise move, Hambro said, the Germans being thrown back before they could fire a shot. As a result, he said, German troops in the North are now isolated and cut off from

WESTERN RANCH FEUD FATAL TO FOUR PERSONS

MONTE VISTA, Colo., April 11—A mother of 10 children died today and her 22-year-old son was near death as the result of a gun fight in which three men were killed as a bloody climax to a feud of long-standing between Rio Grande County ranchers.

The death-dealing gunplay occurred on a highway just outside the ranch of Pat Maes, 50, sheep rancher 12 miles south of Monte Vista, Colo. Maes, peace officer said, admitted slaying his brother-in-law, Manuel Ortega, 40; Deputy Sheriff Raymond Martinez, 38, and Edward Dominguez, 30.

Police Chief Max Richardson and Sheriff C. P. Phillips said Maes told him he shot down the three men after his wife, 44, and their son, Frank, first had been shot by Deputy Sheriff Martinez when the two parties alighted from automobiles and an argument ensued. Mrs. Maes died today.

CHURCHILL ADMITS LOSS OF DESTROYERS IN WAR

LONDON, April 11—Loss of two British destroyers and damage to the 33,900-ton battleship Rodney were reported to the House of Churchill, first lord of the admiralty.

(German authorities several days ago announced they had frustrated an allied plot to block the Danube and prevent shipping between Germany and the Black Sea.)

PARIS—German forces on the Western Front have made "certain preparations" for attack, it was announced officially today.

BERLIN—Formation of a new Danish national government, consisting of present Socialist-Radical Prime Minister Stauning and six members of opposition parties, has been announced by the official German news agency in a dispatch from Copenhagen. ### BANDITS ESCAPE WITH $16,000 OF FEDERAL MONEY

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., April 11—Bandits today looted the New Britain railroad station and escaped with $16,000 in Federal Reserve notes in a daring daylight holdup.

The money was in two strong boxes and had been sent from Boston to the New Britain bank. Four men were known to have participated in the robbery.

They handcuffed Fred Tormay, station agent of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, to a door knob and escaped with the boxes. Tormay was released when Percy Wells, another railroad employee, discovered him and found that the bandits had obligingly left the handcuff keys in the station.

A half hour after the robbery a Hartford policeman, Homer Gouette, was shot at by men in a car bearing New York license plates. Gouette, cruising in a patrol car, spotted the New York auto in Goodwin Park and started to follow it. The auto picked up speed and Gouette said he was shot at with machine guns as it escaped.

An eighth state alarm has been issued.

CONVICT SAYS FACTORY OPERATOR HIRED HIM TO FIRE PIQUA MILLS

TROY, April 11—The defense today endeavored to shake the testimony of William Dowty, a confessed arsonist, that Gustav A. Holland, now on trial, induced him to set the $100,000 blaze which on December 18 destroyed the Holland Mills at Piqua.

The state is endeavoring to prove that Holland, prominent Piqua businessman, hired Dowty to fire the mill, now owned by the Glidden Company of Cleveland, to remove competition for his own newly-established plant, the Holland Pioneer Mills.

Dowty, now serving a Mansfield Reformatory sentence for his part in the crime, readily admitted starting the blaze.

Allies To Sink All Nazi Ships In North Area

Churchill Tells Commons His Forces Now In Charge Of Faroe Islands; Lowlands Warned To Prepare For Emergencies

HITLER'S RECKLESSNESS DISCUSSED

Great Damage Inflicted Against Reich's Navy; Bigger Events To Come, States England's Lord Of Admiralty

LONDON, April 11—All German ships in the Skagerrak and the Kattegat will be destroyed, First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today.

LONDON, April 11—Four German cruisers, numerous destroyers, supply ships and transports have been destroyed by the British navy in Scandinavian waters, First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today.

British forces are occupying the strategic Faroe Islands formerly owned by Denmark, he disclosed, and an airtight cordon has been thrown around Iceland.

In his first full review of the war since German invasion of Denmark and Norway, Churchill bluntly warned Belgium, Holland and Sweden that they face a similar fate at German hands and characterized Adolf Hitler's present operations as "a prelude to far greater events."

In reprisal, Britain is now embarking "on virtually unrestricted submarine warfare except where humanitarian considerations prevail, he said, the under-sea fleet having been accorded "full liberty of action."

Reports Discounted

Churchill said there was no foundation for reports that British troops had recaptured and occupied Bergen and Trondheim on Norway's coast and was reluctant to describe British successes. He did say, however, that Germany's cruiser arm had been crippled and hinted at an eventual smashing blow by the British navy.

Strategically, economically and politically, Adolf Hitler has overreached himself by extending the war so far North, Churchill said, and compared the Fuehrer's error in strategy with Napoleon's invasion of Spain.

"The very recklessness with which Hitler and his advisers cast the interests of the German navy on wild waters," Churchill said, "makes me feel that costly and audacious operations may be only a prelude to far large events which impend on land..."

"We have probably arrived now at the first main test of the war, but find no reason in the facts of what has just happened, still less in our own hearts, to deter us from entering any fresh trials which may be before us."

Briefly, Churchill's long and carefully-worded address may be summarized:

1—British troops have not landed in Norway, but needed portions of her coast can be seized "whenever we want them."

2—The German navy has suffered badly, with four cruisers sunk, the battleship Scharnhorst hit, and a supply base destined to make Narvik, Norway, a new Gibraltar "broken up" by British guns.

3—Effectiveness of Britain's blockade has improved immeasurably now that Norway's neutrality is gone.

4—Other neutral nations will now be well advised to ask for British and French aid before they themselves have been made victims of "elaborately planned and scientifically carried out" German invasion.

5—Hitler has gained nothing from his Scandinavian venture and faces ultimate loss of his entire navy. All German ships in the Skagerrak and Kattegat "will be destroyed."

6—The British navy lost two destroyers and the 33,900-ton battleship Rodney.

MILK SUPPLY ARRANGED

Space Obtained In Plant
Of Cooperative Assn.,
West Main Street

The Harmon Dairy Company, headed by David Harmon, West Mound Street, will start operations in Circleville on April 20. Mr. Harmon, who announced formation of the new company, has been associated with the Pickaway Dairy Cooperative Association since his graduation from Ohio State University in March with a degree of dairy technology.

The dairy will obtain its supply of milk from the splendid herds of Robert D. Musser and Charles Walters. Mr. Musser's herd, pastured in Washington Township, includes 35 pedigreed Guernsey and Ayrshire cows, while Walter's herd of 30 pedigreed Ayrshires is pastured in Circleville Township.

Glass lined stainless steel equipment for the production of a complete line of dairy products is being installed in the space that has been rented from the Pickaway Dairy Cooperative Association, West Main Street.

The initial production capacity is expected to be 250 quarts of milk a day, Harmon said, in addition to the cream, cheese and chocolate milk output. Plant expansion will follow when the production units are functioning and the initial capacity is running at its peak.

Although the new dairy will be producing at the Pickaway Dairy plant, the two companies are not related or associated.

INSPECTION BY 35 MEN TOPS ANTI-FIRE EVENT

CHILLICOTHE, April 11—Chillicothe celebrated "Fire Prevention Day" Wednesday as 35 fire inspectors from Columbus made a survey of the fire hazards and fire prevention needs throughout the city. Accompanied by Boy Scouts, the inspectors toured business establishments, schools and public buildings.

Recommendations in an official report of the survey was made at a public dinner at St. Paul's Parish Hall in the evening. In general, the officials reported that they found "everything pretty well cleaned up."

SOUTHERN beauty helps to make it exceedingly easy to look at "Shooting High," a colorful action-romance of the West, co-starring Jane Withers and Gene Autry which opens at the Grand on Friday and running through Saturday. All the leading feminine roles are taken by Southern girls. Jane Withers was born in Atlanta. Marjorie Weaver, who plays the part of Gene's dream girl in the picture, is considered one of Kentucky's greatest beauties, while Katharine Aldridge, who is also prominently featured is a Virginia belle and is known as America's No. 1 Magazine Cover Girl.

Show Officials Alter Attitude

The outlook for the 1940 Pumpkin Show brightened, Robert Colville, society treasurer, reported Wednesday when he returned from Columbus following a conference with officials in the Department of Agriculture.

"We still haven't received complete assurance that our 1940 funds will not be held up," he said, "but it appears that the attitude of the Department has changed. When we receive a statement in an official letter and see it in black and white then we will proceed with our plans. Until then our arrangements will be tentative."

The speculation about the 1940 show arose when John T. Brown, secretary of agriculture, threatened to withhold the state's annual $800 contribution for the promotion of the county event.

The money for the 1939 Show was refunded to the county three months after it was due.

"If there is any change in their policy and they inform us that our funds will be withheld, we will have to use the money that is usually given to the county agent, F. K. Blair, which is used for the promotion of Junior Fair and 4-H Club activities," Colville continued.

He explained that there are 11 other counties in the state whose fair is held on the streets of the county seat. It is doubtful, he said, whether the department would care to risk the alienation of those 11 counties.

The objection of the department to the Circleville Pumpkin Show was based on the fact that the fair is held on the streets of the city and that two bingo games were being operated on lawns near the streets during the fair.

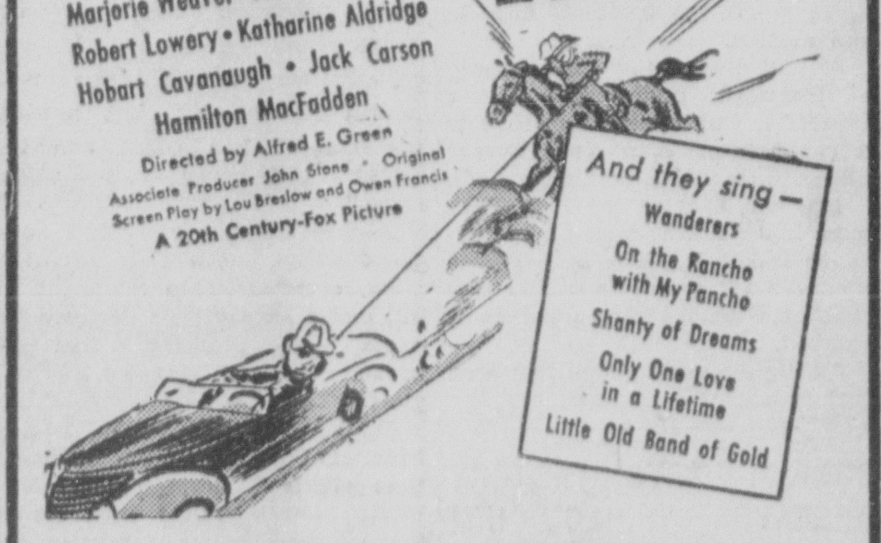

"I think that we have cause to be optimistic," Colville said, "but we can only wait and see what will happen when they make their position official."

as 'the first lady of the American theatre,' will be starred Wednesday, April 17, 9 p. m. CBS when the Star Theatre dramatizes "Icebound," by Owen Davis.

Donald Wood, well known film and stage player will support Miss Hayes in this play about the Jordan family, a New England group as "icebound" emotionally as the weather outside the windows of their parlor. As the play opens, members of the Jordan clan are waiting in the parlor while upstairs their mother is dying. Each child selfishly hopes that the major share of the matriarch's money will be his, but when the will is read, it is June (played by Miss Hayes), a distant relative and almost a servant in the house, who is the beneficiary. The Jordans are furious but Jane considers that she holds the money in trust and the rest of the play tells how she shames the smallmindedness of the family and reforms Ben, the family ne'er-do-well, by making him her servant until he has learned to think of someone other than himself.

MIRIAM HOPKINS

Miriam Hopkins, blonde favorite of stage, radio and screen, will play the part of Ann Hathaway when Rudy Vallee and his troupe present a historical fantasy based on that part of Shakespeare's life when he was writing "Romeo and Juliet." Program, to be broadcast at 9:30 tonight over the NBC-Red network, will also mark the first radio appearance of Margaret Hamilton, who portrayed the witch in the "Wizard of Oz." Miss Hamilton will play the part of Queen Elizabeth, who wanted to enact Juliet back in the days when Will dreamed her up. Rudy will sing "Wind and the Rain in Your Hair," and the two original production numbers will be "All's Well That Ends Well" and "Romeo."

POWELL SETS MARKS

Teddy Powell's orchestra, which has been breaking records in its current engagement at the Arcadia Ballroom in New York, has been renewed for six weeks. Their three weekly NBC broadcasts from there will continue for the length of the run. On June 5, by popular demand, the Powell band will return to the Famous Door.

With the young singing star in the Cecil B. DeMille production over the Columbia network at 9 p. m. will be Robert Cummings, Nan Grey and C. Aubrey Smith.

Gloria Jean is currently at work on her second motion-picture, "If I Had My Way," in which she co-stars with Bing Crosby. Nan Grey will be remembered by radio fans for her excellent work as Kathy in "Those We Love" which just concluded its run on the airwaves.

F. D. PREVENTS GERMANY FROM TAKING WEALTH

Danish And Norwegian Money Now In U. S. To Stay Here Despite Outcome

SHIPPING DECREES VITAL

Soviet Ports Included In Move To Keep Nation's Trade From Danger

WASHINGTON, April 11—One of the "methods short of war" which President Roosevelt once threatened to employ against aggressor states was in use today to prevent Germany from possibly acquiring millions of dollars in the United States.

The President last night issued two executive orders designed to prevent the Reich from indirectly transferring abroad any of the state or private wealth of either Denmark and Norway or their citizens, now held in the United States.

This financial blow at Berlin followed by only a few hours the President's extension of the "belligerent zone"—from which American ships are barred—to an area entirely surrounding the Scandinavian peninsula and extending East to include the Soviet ports of Murmansk and Archangel.

Angle Significant

That action, close scrutiny revealed, may also have been aimed at Berlin, as well as being designed to keep American ships out of the war zone. No United States vessel now can carry goods across the Atlantic to Russia—the Reich's economic ally—for possible transshipment to Germany. Coming at a time when a British blockade threatens to close Russia's Pacific ports to war supplies which may be destined ultimately for the Reich, the inclusion of Russian ports in that new zone appeared significant.

The President's reference to "measures short of war"—under which last night's orders might be included—occurred in a speech Mr. Roosevelt made to congress on January 4, 1939. He said:

"Words may be futile, but was it not the only means of commanding a decent respect for the opinions of mankind. There are many methods short of war, but stronger and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to aggressor governments the aggregate sentiments of our own people."

Two executive orders—based on authority given the President under the "Trading With the Enemy Act of 1917"—were issued by Mr. Roosevelt:

1. All payments to Danes and Norwegians of balances held by them in the United States were forbidden, except under licenses to be issued in exceptional cases by the secretary of the treasury.

2. Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau was ordered to make a complete inventory of all property—both governmental and private—owned by Danes or Norwegians in this country.

The orders were issued after extended conferences among State Department and treasury officials and envoys of the two Scandinavian countries over which Germany has asserted control.

Presbyterians Choose Officers, Hear Reports

Members of the First Presbyterian Church were well satisfied with the status of the church as revealed Wednesday in the various reports at the annual business meeting of the congregation which followed the cooperative dinner in the social room. Approximately 70 enjoyed the dinner with about 20 coming later for the business session.

The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey served as moderator of the congregational meeting with Harp Van Riper as clerk.

The first report received was that of the committee appointed at the 1939 session to investigate and revise the constitution and by-laws of the church.

E. A. Brown, chairman, reported the findings of the committee comprised of Mrs. Will Mack, Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, E. O. Eagleson and James Sampson. After the constitution was read and the by-laws reviewed, the report of the committee was unanimously accepted.

George F. Grand-Girard, reporting for the Session of the church, recommended that the bench of deacons be increased from nine to 12 members. This recommendation was adopted by vote of the congregation.

Beginning with George Hammel who read the reports of the bench of deacons and Sunday school as treasurer of both organizations, each department of the church reported through one of its officers, including the Sunday school, Miss Katherine Foresman, secretary; the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. Edward S. Stephens, treasurer; Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. Grace Wentworth, treasurer; Women's Social Club, Mrs. G. G. Campbell, president; Tuxis Club, David Eagleson, president; Boy Scout Troop, No. 205, Dr. F. C. Schaeffer, scoutmaster; Women's Bible Class, Mrs. George Hammel, treasurer; Westminster Bible Class, Mrs. G. I. Nickerson, president; Presby-Weds, prepared report read by the Rev. Mr. Kelsey; church benevolences, Mr. Grand-Girard, treasurer; Men's Club, Don Walker, president; Marvin Steele, clerk of the Session, read the report previously submitted at the Tuesday meeting of Presbytery.

years. E. O. Crites and Mr. Eagleson served as tellers.

With the closing of the congregational business, J. O. Eagleson, president of the board of trustees, led the business meeting of the church corporation. Mr. Van Riper again serving as clerk. At this time it was disclosed that the receipts of the church for the last year were $4,743.46 and disbursements, $4,692.60, showing, with the balance of $50.86 in the treasury, that the church operated within its budget for the last year.

In order to complete the board of trustees as a properly organized unit, a seventh trustee was elected after the change in number was adopted. Robert Colville, church treasurer, was elected.

The Ladies' Aid Society held a short meeting in charge of Mrs. Mack, president, and unanimously elected the new slate of officers prepared by the nominating committee. Mrs. Leland Pontus is the new president and her assistants are Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach, vice president; Miss Sadie Brunner, secretary; Mrs. E. S. Stephens, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Kiger, Mrs. Eva Dresbach and Mrs. Clark Will, committee-at-large.

The trustees met in a brief session, the organization of this group for the year not being completed.

Folks in the good old days enjoyed some pleasures denied we moderns. Think what fun it must have been to, at least, peel off and discard that old suit of red flannels.

'APPLE A DAY' ADAGE BACKED BY PROFESSORS

CINCINNATI, April 11—The "apple a day keeps the doctor away" theory apparently still holds good.

Scientists attending the 99th meeting of the American Chemical Society were told today that "the usefulness of the apple diet is now established beyond a doubt."

Z. I. Kertesz, of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, read a paper in which he declared that an apple diet had proven particularly effective in curing diarrhea in infants.

"But," Kertesz said, "there is no definite explanation how and why the apple is responsible for the action."

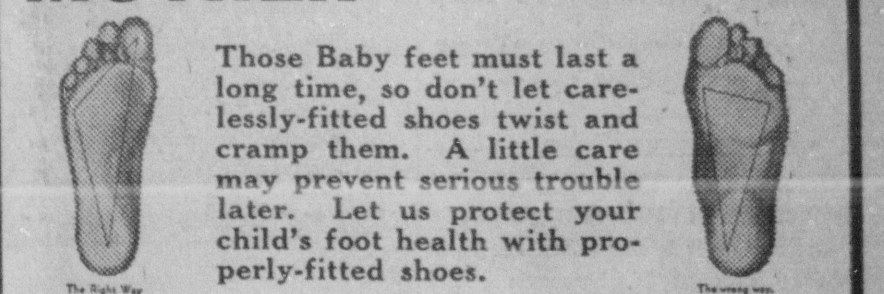

Progress made in the study of organic compounds known as sterols, particularly plant sterols, was described by Dr. Erhard Fernholz and Dr. Homer E. Staveland, New Brunswick, N. J. Sterols are of great interest, the men said, because they contain such physiologically active substance as vitamin D, certain glucosides valuable in the treatment of heart disease and the hormones of the adrenal cortex which have been effective in treating shock and Addison's disease.

One not-so-good feature about spring is that in order to find a place to store the snow shovel one usually must take out the lawn mower.

BARTENDER, 55, FACES CHARGES AFTER TRAGEDY

Chillicothean Killed When Forcibly Ejected From Cafe Door

MANSLAUGHTER CLAIMED

Repeated Warnings To Keep Quiet Preceded Fatal Expulsion

CHILLICOTHE, April 11—Arrestment for Fred Schenke, 55, bartender at Hamelburg's Cafe, was scheduled for Thursday in Mayor Harold H. Brown's court on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Fred Shewalter, 57, Sherman Hotel, who died at Chillicothe Hospital, from injuries sustained when he had been forcibly ejected from the cafe Tuesday night.

A post mortem examination made by Dr. F. W. Nussbaum Wednesday night disclosed that death was the result of a skull fracture which extended about eight inches across the front of the skull and a branching fracture on the right side of the head extending upwards for two inches. Coroner R. E. Oliver, who made the announcement, said that his official finding was homicide.

Police Chief Russell Poole, after a conference with Lester S. Reid, prosecuting attorney, filed charges of manslaughter against Schenke who is at liberty on a $200 bond. A new bond will be fixed by Mayor Brown who will bind him over to the grand jury.

Ejected Twice

Schenke, in a signed statement, said that he had ejected Shewalter twice from the cafe after warning him to remain quiet if he wished to remain. After Shewalter had been ejected from the cafe for the third time, he was found unconscious on the sidewalk outside the cafe. He was taken to the hospital, but never regained consciousness.

Describing the last time he forced Shewalter out of his cafe Schenke said, "As he held back I shoved him. Outside he either lost control of himself or stumbled on a cellar door at the sidewalk. He fell backwards and struck his head on the sidewalk."

Only two surviving relatives have been found, Miss Anna Shewalter, Tuscon, a sister, and COLUMBUS, O., April 11—Columbus recorded its 21st traffic fatality of the year today with the death of 81-year-old James O. Branch, who died in Mt. Carmel Hospital after being struck by an auto while talking to an elderly acquaintance. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon.

Police said the car of Pearl Wareheim, 61, careened into a house on the corner after striking Branch.

COUNTY'S REAL ESTATE TAXES GO AHEAD OF '39

Tax returns for the first half of 1940 are well ahead of the comparative returns of last year.

Only tangible taxes ran behind those of a year ago. But the gap is expected to be closed before the week is out since several returns haven't come in yet.

The figures for 1939 and 1940 are shown in the order as follows: Real estate: $247,208.92, $249,818.34; tangible taxes: $20,706.89, $19,308.99; classified taxes: $9,684.28, $10,529.57.

TRUSTEESHIP LETTERS, ACCOUNT FILED IN DAY

What is probably the fastest transaction in the history of the Pickaway County Probate Court took place Wednesday in the Lafa Lanman trusteeship when letters of trusteeship were issued and the final account was filed in that one day.

In the late Lafa Lanman's will, which was probated May 4, 1938, the provision is made that all his real estate at the time of his death should be given to his widow, Altha E. Lanman, for life, but in the event of her remarriage Dale Lanman, his son, is to become trustee and sell the land at either private or public sale and distribute the proceeds according to the will.

Following Mrs. Lanman's remarriage, Probate Judge Lemuel Weldon issued letters of the trusteeship to Dale on Wednesday. Later in the day, Dale filed a final account after he had sold the real estate and closed the trusteeship.

The land which was sold was 22.60 acres in Jackson Township in which the late Lafa Lanman had a one-half interest. That interest was valued at $1,030. Under the terms of the will Dale is to receive $500 from its sale and one-third of the remainder after the $500 is deducted. The other two-thirds goes to Mrs. Evelyn Hoover and Mrs. Opal M. Davis, daughters.

CONTEMPT CHARGE FILED AGAINST PEARL SMITH

A contempt of court action was brought Wednesday against Pearl Smith, Columbus, by his former wife Marima Smith Renick, Darbyville, in Common Pleas Court when she charged that he has defaulted in payments for the support of their son Richard, 14.

At the time of their divorce in May, 1933, the court ordered Smith to pay $4 weekly for the support of the child, then seven years old. The contempt of court action states that Smith has defaulted on the payments to the amount of $89.

ASHVILLE

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

Had been hearing for a few days about a new frame building over on Cromley Street, West Side. So there was but one way to find out for sure all about it, and that was to go see for ourselves. And this we did.

At the new building now with frame about complete and of native saved timber from the Frank Conrad mill nearby. Cement block foundation and of sizable dimensions. But the bad part of all of it, the workmen, Pork and Dick Cook told us that the building, because of interfering with nearby electric wires, may have to be moved.

Directly across the street from this frame work is the dwelling recently purchased by Roe and Mrs. Boyer of Columbus. And they sure are making some change in the appearance of things.

Next stop where we were sure they needed another boss, was at the door yard of James Hott where Asher, Mrs. Hott and Miss Sara Fraley were raking the lawn and seemingly doing a fine job of it. Mrs. Hott and Miss Fraley just recently returned from a trip to the National Capital to see the cherry blossom show but the bloom is a week late in getting out and the ladies were disappointed in this, but they had a fine trip and saw many interesting places.

At Neighbor Will's, near the Hotts, Ed Wills was spading up things right in the front door yard, the Mr. Wills doing the smoothing down act with the garden rake with Ernie Fellers doing the bossing. Next point, the gas stations with everybody too busy to even stand inspection. Halted Minhard Crites just across the street at the cannery long enough to learn the near 600 acres of peas were near all sown and some coming up fine. Best kind of weather for peas, he said. Sanitary closets are being installed at the plant and Herb Gregg was busy on the cement work.

and we sneaked in to find Pat busy getting out orders for shipment to other corn experiment stations in several states.

At the grain elevator there was plenty of action, a high powered salesman of the best coal under or on the earth was trying to anchor some of his wares. And besides, Bob Immell, who wants to go to Washington as Congressman from this district was passing out cards to us boys. And what did he do before he became the big farmer that he now is down in Ross? We asked him. School teacher for nine years he said and never licked a kid. A keen little paddle, he found, got good results.

Chillicothe's Big Plants
See End Of Supplies
From Scandinavia

PRODUCTION TO CONTINUE

Canada, West Coast Sources Sufficient, Ketra And McVicker Say

CHILLICOTHE, April 11—The war in Scandinavia began to come close to home when fears were being expressed at the Mead Corporation in Chillicothe for pulp supplies which the war is cutting off from Norway.

Officials at the mill allayed the fears when they announced that home pulp supplies will prove adequate as the necessity arises. At the moment the war spread to the pulp producing Scandinavian countries it was indicated that no serious trouble to the mill in Chillicothe would result.

W. H. Ketra, purchasing agent of the Mead Corporation, said that production would go on as usual even if all the shipments from Norway and Sweden were cut off. Russell McVicker, purchasing agent of the Chillicothe Paper Company, concurred in this view. Canadian and West Coast sources were deemed sufficient to supply all the needs.

The situation abroad was termed "too confused" to be able to base any predictions on the possibility of still retaining the Scandinavian nations as a source for pulp. Effect of the invasion was noted in the prices quoted at the docks in New York where the price jumped to $72 a ton after being quoted at $50 the first of the year.

McVicker said that his company

PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

GIVE US A STRONG CONGRESS

Nominations for Congress and Senate are now getting under way. During the next month I shall write a column each week about the importance of Congress.

No one knows who the next President will be. But we can take steps now to ensure a strong Congress. Your vote counts far more for Congress than for President. For the latter you have one vote in 45 million. For Congressman you have one vote in about 125 thousand, and in the average Congressional primary one vote in 50 thousand. That means that your vote

PETTENGILL weak Congressman or Senator, you will have no one but a weakling to vote for next fall.

We poke a lot of fun at Congress. Congressman and mothers-in-law are always in open season for jokes. That does no harm. It keeps them human. But Congress as such is not a joke. Its members are your sole representatives, —the only voice you have in determining the public policies under which you want to live.

Without making a false hero of any one, the fact remains that the legislative branch—Congress, parliament, a state legislature—is the heart of free institutions. Freedom has always risen or declined with the strength or weakness of the parliamentary body. It can be safely stated that no parliament ever destroyed the liberty of its constituents so long as it retained the powers given it by them. As Jefferson said, "The authority

of Congress can never be weakened without injury to the Union."

In the first message that Congress ever received, the inaugural address on April 30, 1789, President Washington said that in place of recommending particular measures for its consideration he preferred to pay "the tribute that is due to the talents, the rectitude and patriotism which adorn the characters selected to devise them."

It is apparent that the people are being confronted with the question whether the law-making power is to be exercised by their chosen representatives or by bureaucrats, not elected by them, nor responsible to them. Not only have vast powers been turned over by Congress to the Executive, but every attempt to amend or recapture those powers is being fiercely challenged by the bureau.

N. L. R. B., for example, does not blush to put pressure on Congressmen in their own districts against any change of the Wagner Act or any subtraction from their powers; public funds in violation of law, are brazenly used in radio programs to propagandize Congress, and the Executive himself has not hesitated to criticize and hold up to ridicule Congressional Committees and to purge Congressmen and Senators from public office by the vast power of patronage and blank check expenditure of public money; and he is now opposing the new Hatch act.

As has happened before "the ruling class found government too profitable to share it with other possessors." The great change in the proprieties which should govern the Executive branch is to contrast present methods with the view of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the party whose name is now used by those who betray the principles he fought for. Said Jefferson of Congress, "I do not mean that any gentleman, relinquishing his own judgment, should support all the measures of the administration — my friendships with Congress I valued too highly to risk by usurpation on their freedom of judgment, and the conscientious pursuit of their own sense of duty."

If your present Senator or Congressman is a strong man, and has demonstrated that fact under fire — men for example like Burke of Nebraska, Byrd of Virginia and Johnson of California — keep him there. But if you don't have a strong man in Congress, put one there.

Want "in" on next year's "Big News" Now?

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

YOU can figure it out for yourself from what you see in daily traffic and what you hear when the talk turns to automobiles.

Buick's pacing the pack. Has been for several years.

It called this year's style turn a year ago. It set current performance standards in '38 with its Dynaflex engine. It still leads the crowd for riding qualities with its Buick Coil Springing, now in its third year. So where's a more logical place to look for next year's "big news" than in this year's big and roomy Buick?

It may be smoother engines. Buick is the only car that now balances power plants after assembly.

Coil springs all around may come. Buick's never need lubrication, are practically indestructible, and even cut down skid-risks.

Maybe it'll be heavier frames — Buick has the heaviest of any car of its price. Or maybe many of the "extra touches" Buick so freely applies — safety-latches on rear doors and Two-Way Direction Signals with automatic cut-off.

You get all of these things now in Buick.

Get them with the plus of Buick quality of materials and workmanship — get them at a price that suggests a six instead of an eight.

So it's easy to start enjoying future "new features" right now.

Just go try a Buick. Look it over, inside and out. And get the prices.

Even if you've been buying in the lowest-price field you'll find it takes less than you think to step up to a Buick. Prices begin at $895 * delivered at Flint, Mich.; transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories — extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

You get a "Good Deal" Two Ways from Your Buick Dealer

A good "deal" when it comes to old-car allowances — and a whole of a lot of automobile in your new Buick. See your dealer and find out for yourself.

SPREADING NAZI BLESSINGS

HITLER shows his hand again, and a heavy hand it is. There is now something rotten in the State of Denmark! It is the Nazi system. The most barbarous government in Europe, except possibly Stalin's, grabs an ancient center of civilization as fine as the modern world has produced. Blameless Denmark will be a part of the Nazi empire from now on, unless the democratic Allies are able to make Hitler disgorge his prey.

Norway also, another free and enlightened modern state, seems doomed. But that is less certain, because it is better able than Denmark to make some resistance, and it can count on help from Britain, and probably later from Sweden.

So the war spreads. It begins to assume the proportions of another World War. Very likely the Balkans will be sucked in again before long. And then what of Russia and Italy? And what of Belgium, Holland and Switzerland? Nobody knows how far this modern Napoleon will go, or try to go, if he succeeds in his latest kidnapping enterprise.

And America? We don't like to think about it. We are determined to stay out this time, in spite of outraged feelings and provocations, if it is humanly possible to do so—and probably it is. But nobody can tell us any more that we shouldn't sympathize with the democracies and express our anger at the brutal destruction of free and unoffending nations. That wouldn't be human.

AMERICAN OPERA

EDWARD JOHNSON, manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, says "What this country needs is training opportunities for operatic composers." That would lead naturally to an outpouring of American operas.

It may sound grand, to a public rapidly becoming "opera-conscious." But is this country really ready, or anywhere near ready, for such a musical blossoming?

The nations that have produced most of the famous operas so far are those with an old and ripe musical culture. And the operas written in America have not, for the most part, made much of a hit. People say "Yes, yes—that's good. We're coming along musically." And then they go right on patronizing the old European operas.

It may be that for operatic purposes a theme and its associations must be so old as to be on the edge of decay. Perhaps we're too new here, as yet, to get so far away from real life.

It's fine to sell all our old ships—if we use the money for new ones to take their places.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Over the breakfast coffee did read with interest of mounting activity in the war overseas. Seems as though every few weeks we are given additional proof that regardless of a nation's attitude on war it should be strong and ready to fight at a moment's notice. The times when there were declarations of war have all passed into history. These days one just goes down to breakfast to find enemy troops drinking his coffee and eating his toast. Thank God for the Atlantic ocean, the Pacific ocean, a friendly nation to the north and a weak one to the south.

At the post did meet Dr.

Courtright and Ray Davis, both out early and seeking important mail. There goes Dr. Goeller, who has put out a strawberry patch for himself, he hopes, his neighbors and the birds. Chatted with George Lane, formerly of the post-office, home on a brief leave from the Franklin sanitarium, and expecting to be pronounced entirely cured by early Summer.

Only a few days now until the magnolia trees will be in full bloom. And what beautiful trees they are. Nothing prettier that I have seen, although I have noted much more majestic trees. Balsams are my favorites, but one has to go too far north to find them.

Hear increasing complaints regarding the new parking order. It has, however, one great advantage in that it makes Main Street look like a real street rather than a narrow alley in the vicinity of a metropolitan fish market. Yet the farmers don't like it, and I don't blame them. Seems to me that absolutely nothing has been accomplished by the program if the program is aimed at improvement of the traffic situation. Why not try out that fifteen minute parking plan in the downtown district for at least thirty days. Certainly nothing will be lost and much might be gained. I think farmers would appreciate it. At least all I have talked to declared that they would. They would have immediate and certain access to all downtown stores.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

TRADE PARLEYS WITH ALLIES

WASHINGTON—The State Department soon will issue a statement regarding extremely important conversations which have been taking place behind closed doors with two representatives of the Allies. They were held in an effort to straighten out some of the irritations in U. S.-Allied relations, such as the curtailment of tobacco purchases, the stoppage of fruit shipments, the violation of trade treaties.

Regarding these, the conferences have been a disappointment. But one most significant point has been developed. For the British and French have shown by implication that they have given up any expectation that this country might enter the war.

At every point, British Frank Ashton-Kwatkin and French Charles Rist have been courteous but firm. Their theme in effect has been, "After all, we are fighting a war. Trade with you must come second. American sympathy will not kill the enemy."

They have made a few trifling concessions, but even while the talks were going on, the British aggravated the problem by loading on further trade restrictions. This made Cordell Hull boil, fearful of adverse effects on the Senate debate over trade agreement. But when Ashton-Kwatkin cabled London urging moderation, the British remained unmoved.

The opening conversation here was typical. Henry F. Grady, Assistant Secretary of State in charge of trade agreements, began with a statement of U. S. grievances against the Allied blockade. When he had finished, Ashton-Kwatkin wrung his fleshy hands and said:

"I hardly know how to reply in the face of these—what shall I say—animadversions against my government. After all—ah—we are fighting with our backs to the wall, so to speak."

When U. S. officials suggested that this was a short-sighted policy which would antagonize the American people, the Allied representatives made it clear that they were not courting U. S. favor and not hoping for U. S. entrance into the war.

KENNEDY'S SENATE POLL

This attitude is based partly on reports of growing anti-war sentiment in this country. For instance, Ambassador Joe Kennedy told British officials how he had taken a private toll of the Senate, and found 22 Senators who had voted for lifting the embargo last fall who would vote the other way if the issue were presented now.

In view of this sentiment, the Allies have decided they have nothing to gain by weakening their blockade or increasing their expenditure of dollars in the United States.

Any concessions made will be in their own interest. The British Tommy must have tobacco, and the British Government will probably resume buying American flue-cured tobacco, either from stock held by Commodity Credit Corporation, or from the new crop when it comes in. But in order to conserve dollar exchange, they are looking for some means of taking the tobacco on credit.

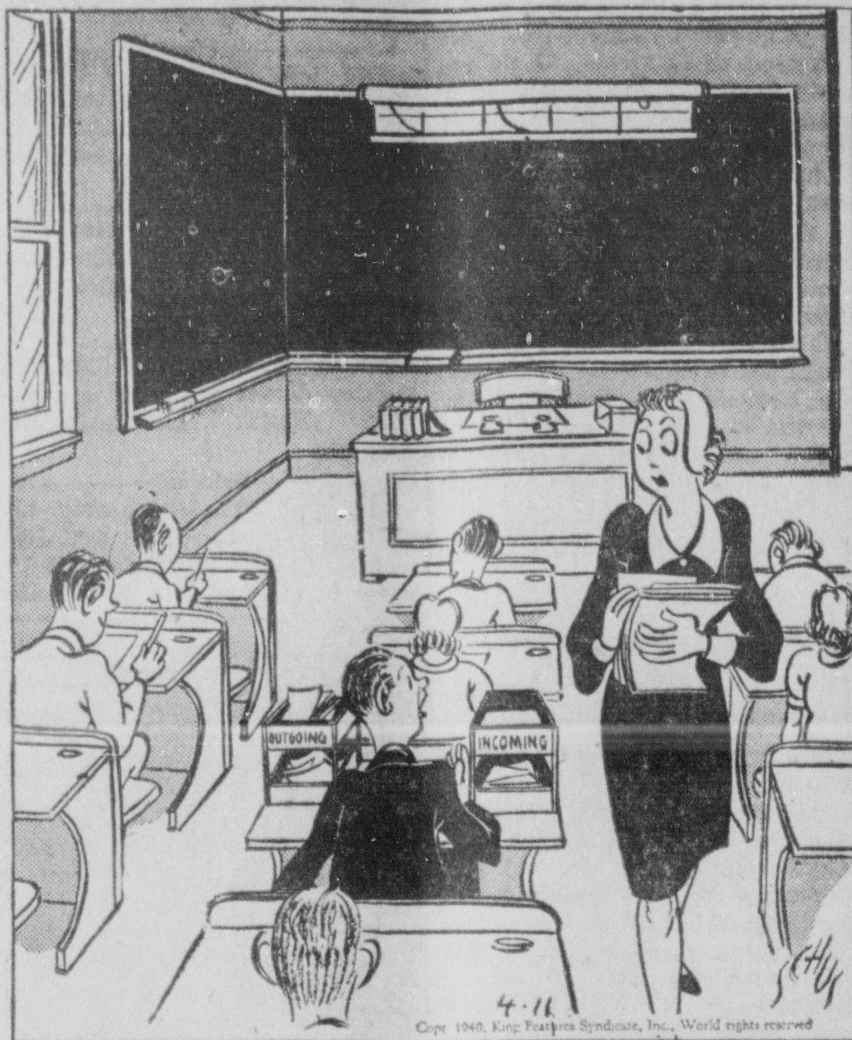

This, of course, would run up against the Johnson Act, and might start again the old World War system of pumping U. S. money into Europe.

Endorses Bowling as Healthy Sport

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Is bowling a healthy sport for women?

I thoroughly believe in bowling as a healthy sport, both for men and women. As a form of exercise it has good psychological features. Interest in the game makes people forget they are taking exercise and they are, therefore, not so likely to give up easily, which they would do with bedroom exercises or walking, both of which get somewhat monotonous.

It is splendid exercise for the back, the arms, the thighs and the forelegs, and it cultivates co-ordination of the muscles with the eyes and the sense of equilibrium.

It is good for a problem child of any age because it promotes companionship and good sportsman-

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ship. It should appeal to women because it is a good way to streamline the body, and it stretches many muscles which otherwise would not be used.

Curiously enough, it reduces fat people and increases the weight of thin people. Neck, chest, back and thigh muscles that are becoming stringy and unbecoming fill out into rounded contours. It improves carriage and complexion.

That women themselves are finding it valuable is shown by the fact that there are 500 women bowling teams in the country, and that nearly one-fifth of all bowlers are women; I am told that there are over 76,000 women bowlers in the United States.

Diets Suggested to Improve Skin

What diets are recommended for the skin?

Nature's remedies are probably the best skin tonics. Sunshine, fresh air, water and cleanliness are included in these. For complexion and health, the skin needs sulphur, iron, vitamin A and probably a newly-discovered vitamin which is present in liver.

Vegetables and fruits are substances which contain the natural minerals and vitamins that are skin tonics. Onions may be said to be good skin foods; the onion is rich in sulphur and if eaten raw probably is more beneficial than when cooked.

Among other foods that are good sources of sulphur are sprouts, cabbage, beet root, radishes, endive, cauliflower, red cabbage. Foods which contain iron are watercress, spinach, prunes, raisins, apricots, parsley, olives, dandelion leaves and nearly all dark green vegetables. Vitamin A is supplied by carrots, which contain carotene, the basic substance from which vitamin A is manufactured. Do not peel the carrots because the surface, as with most vegetables, contains larger amounts of vitamins than the pulp.

Almonds and Brazil nuts contain oils which are said to be skin tonics. Plenty of water is also advisable.

How to Select Children's Shoes

Recipe for good children's shoes.

(1) Measure both feet to be sure that they are both well fitted; that the shoes are wide enough but not too wide.

(2) Stockings should be long enough so that they fit the foot loosely.

(3) Give the toes room to expand.

(4) The instep should be fitted snugly but not be binding. The heel should also be fitted snugly so that it does not chafe.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendingen has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendingen, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reduction Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

RICHARD HOUGHTON

CHAPTER THIRTY

I INTENDED to dump the box of knives in the river and thus destroy this damning evidence against Jerry, but I soon saw that the job wasn't going to be as easy as I thought.

For one thing, I should have wrapped the box in paper. It stood out white in the darkness, a very suspicious object for anyone to be carrying along the streets at this time of night.

The trees on this street sheltered me for only two blocks. I decided to cut across into an alley. To do that I must cross in the center of a block. There was someone on the opposite sidewalk and two cars on the street. I held the box behind me in the shadows and waited.

A man came walking down the sidewalk on which I stood. He stared at me curiously as he passed, but said nothing.

My mouth was dry. Belzer would tell the police the knives had been stolen from him in a shoe box. Would this man remember he had seen me with a shoe box?

I encouraged myself with the thought that he was a stranger, only half seeing me in the shadows. He might not be able to identify me.

The street was clear at last. I hurried across, but avoided running, and entered the dark alley. I stumbled against a tin can, and stopped in fright when someone close to me said, "What's that!"

Another voice answered, "Probably just a cat." Footsteps moved away from the opposite side of the high board fence. I heard a screen door slam in a nearby house.

I moved on, more cautiously. When I reached the other end of the alley I found the street in front of me brilliantly lit. Officer McClure was only a half block away, coming toward me. I knew he probably would look into the alley.

There was a garbage can close by. I set the box on the ground behind it, quickly brushed my clothes, straightened my hat and stepped out into the street. When McClure passed me, I was looking into a drug store window.

I didn't dare go back into the alley until the officer was out of sight. In the meantime, as I stared into the drugstore I was looking straight at a public telephone booth, which reminded me of Jerry's last request. The episode of the knives had driven it completely from my mind.

He had said: "Get to a telephone, Bill. See if there's someone who'll put up bail or bond for me."

That was four hours ago. Jerry was behind the bars by this time, wondering why he didn't hear from me.

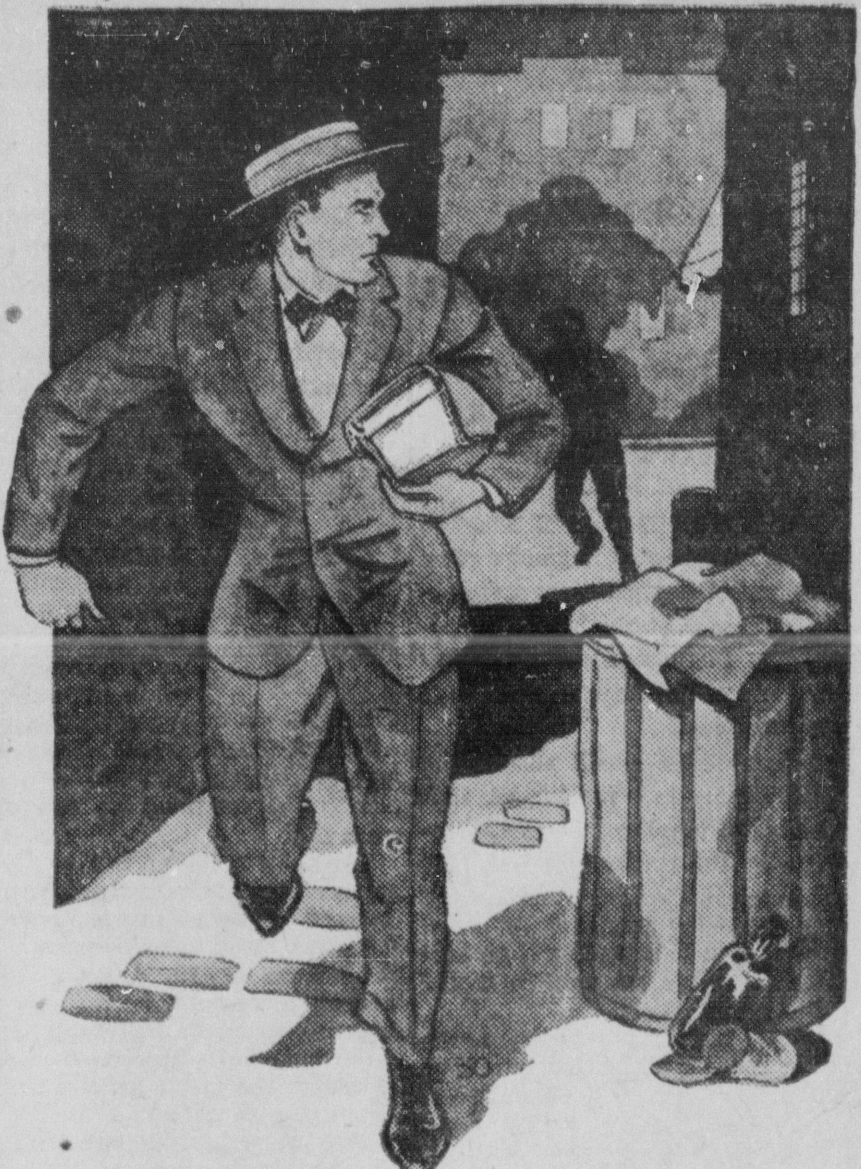

After a dozen calls to friends whom I knew had money, I began to realize what it meant to be poor, and in trouble. Everyone was sympathetic, but that was as far as it went.

At last I tried Harvey McGuire. He promised to do all that he could. I left it in his hands and walked out of the store. The street was fairly deserted—the best I could expect at this time of night.

I had purchased a newspaper in the store. I wrapped it quickly around my shoe box and crossed the street to another alley. I was approaching the riverfront.

Footsteps were following me down the alley. I looked over my shoulder. Between me and the light of the street behind me approached the dark shape of a large man. It might be McClure, I thought in alarm, and started to run. My pursuer started to run, too!

I was burdened by the box. I stumbled, but I reached the street first and whirled into the nearest doorway, which happened to be the office of one of the river boat lines, open all night. I looked back into the street. The man who had been

Roll call was answered by members telling little superstitions connected with nature. Mrs. Rittinger then discussed two subjects, "Nature's Nursery," in which she told of animals and their care of their young, and "The Cosmetic Shop," concerned with the cosmetics supplied by nature and used by the Indians.

During the business hour, the group donated $10 to the White Cross Hospital campaign for funds for the Columbus institution.

The program included a piano solo by Miss Louise Thomas; poems on nature by Miss Bertha Jones, Mrs. Harry Cupp, Mrs. Roy Newton, Mrs. Lawrence all communications with headquarters except by air.

The first German successes at Narvik was achieved because of an apparent misunderstanding, Hambro disclosed.

Major Vikund Quisling, named by the Nazis as head of a Norwegian puppet government, sent instructions to Colonel Sundlo, Norwegian commander at Narvik, to cooperate with the Germans.

Sundlo complied, but a short while later the Norwegian high command supplanted Sundlo with Major Omdahl and ordered the latter to halt the Germans. Omdahl went into action immediately, taking the Germans by surprise. Sundlo was arrested.

A new Norwegian defense line now has been established near the Djupvik station on the Narvik railway, where Omdahl and his troops await reinforcements.

New Attack Halted

An attempted German attack on Elverum, latest seat of the Norwegian government, was repulsed, according to Hambro. Norwegian troops burnt bridges behind the German invaders from Hamar southward, effectively cutting their communications.

Meanwhile, fearing that its neutrality may be short-lived, Sweden completed preparations for any eventuality.

Reservists flocked to the colors as Swedish government officials reiterated:

"Sweden is determined to defend its independence and integrity."

NAZIS DECLARE GRIP UNBROKEN

gen and other cities have been recaptured, and that Oslo was threatened with shelling by British warships. The reports were termed "a systematic campaign of lies intended to stiffen the backs of the Norwegians and cover up annihilating political and military blunders and defeats."

It was emphatically denied that the Reich has sent a note to Sweden demanding free passage for German troops.

German authorities proudly claimed that all efforts of the Allied fleets to rescue Norway from German troops so far have failed.

In addition, they claimed, the Anglo-French naval forces have received a severe battering from German air force bombers even before any fighting between Allied and German forces has been launched on the Scandinavian mainland.

The British and French navies, according to the Germans, apparently split into three units for a triple dash toward the Norwegian coast with the aim of landing expeditionary forces at one or more points and compelling the Germans to fight it out on Norwegian soil.

What hopes the Allies may have of ousting the German forces from their fortified positions are not known in Berlin, but German authorities said they believed the Allies are inclined to discredit the German assertion that the Norwegian coast already has been transformed into an invincible defense position.

"Second Gallipoli"

Any British and counter-claims put forward by both sides, the true situation will probably not be clear until after the war, but it appeared certain today that both the Allies and Germans have sustained heavy blows and that both probably will claim victory.

But above all else, Berlin quarters emphasized, the fact remains that unless the Allies are able to seize Norway they will have fought "in vain." The German navy, it was pointed out, is the smallest unit of the German war machine. Thus whatever losses it may suffer in the major naval action still progressing are not causing undue concern in Berlin.

In any event, it was contended, the final decision with the Allies will be sought elsewhere by Germany, but German sources said the point at present most interesting to Norway, Denmark and Europe's neutral nations is this:

Are the Anglo-French forces capable of carrying out the political promises of the Allies?

STOTTLEMIER SPENDS DAY FISHING, BUT HIS CATCH WAS ONLY TROT-LINES

"Dude" Stottlemire, who lived near the Scioto river bridge and is well known in the fishing circle around town, reported Thursday that he has had his worst day ever.

He spent all day Wednesday fishing in the river and never got a bite. But he did get something everytime he drew his line in.

"I never caught so many trot-lines in all my life," he said. "Everytime I drew my line in there was a trot line on it. Seems as though everyone in town has a trot-line across that river."

Then "Dude" talked about the weather. "Something must be coming," he said, "because everytime something does the fish stop biting and I didn't get a single nibble all day. I wonder what's on its way."

tleship Rodney was damaged by a German bomb during the Scandinavian operations.

Norway and Denmark merely drew the unlucky numbers in Hitler's "sinister lottery" of aggression, Churchill declared.

Churchill dealt at length with how the configuration of the Norwegian coast assisted Germany in running the Allied blockade. He described how the admiralty long urged laying a mine barrier and how the government finally and reluctantly decided to interrupt "the endless procession of German and neutral ships carrying contraband."

The first lord detailed Germany's use of the mine-laying as an excuse to invade "innocent neutral countries—there are others not yet affected—who had helped them in so many ways."

With regard to Norway's resistance, Churchill said:

"In their wild and mountainous country the Norwegians should be able to maintain a vigorous and prolonged resistance, costing enormous labors to those who wish to subject them to tyranny."

"What an example it is of the danger of supposing that friendly relations with Germany are the slightest protection against a murderous onslaught the moment Germany thinks an advantage can be obtained."

"If Norway had not been so strict and severe in enforcing its neutrality against us, it would have been very easy to give them more timely and greater support than is now possible."

Allies Not To Blame

"There is not the slightest use in blaming the Allies for not being able to give substantial protection to neutrals when we are held at arm's length by those countries until they have been actually attacked on a scientifically prepared war by Germany."

"I trust that Norway's strict observation of neutrality, which contributed to her sufferings and affected the aid we can give her, will be meditated on by other countries, who tomorrow or a week or a month hence may find themselves of equally elaborately worked-out staff plans for their destruction and enslavement."

"But we shall aid them (Norway) to the best of our ability and shall conduct war with them and make peace only when their rights are restored."

"Everyone must recognize that it is reckless gambling which has flung the whole German fleet into the open and savage seas of war. "We and the French are stronger than the German navy. We have enough to maintain control of the Mediterranean at the same time as we carry out operations in the North Sea."

"On the very much smaller forces of the German navy, most grievous losses have already been inflicted."

"Four German cruisers have been sunk and a number of destroyers together with some U-boats have been destroyed, all since Sunday. "The German navy must be regarded as deeply mutilated in its extremely important if not indispensable cruiser element."

"Our submarines have by no means been asleep. They have taken a heavy toll of German transport and store ships crossing to Scandinavia."

"We are not going to allow the enemy to supply their troops across those waters with impunity. I hope we shall take an unceasing toll of ships attempting to bring supplies to the forces."

There were increasing authoritative predictions in London that if the naval engagement now under way in the Skagerrak-Kattegat area turned out to be a severe German defeat, the position of the German forces in Norway would become grave.

Low Country Menaced

In that event, it was believed, Chancellor Hitler possibly might strike swiftly against the low countries—Holland and Belgium—where latest dispatches reflected growing uneasiness.

It was emphasized, however, that the Anglo-French Allies have completed plans to meet this or any other eventuality which might arise from the Scandinavian crisis.

Reports from Stockholm said that heavy fighting, increasing in intensity after 3 a. m., was audible off Hallowe and Smoegen, indicating that the battle between Allied and German naval units in the Skagerrak was still progressing with renewed vigor.

The Rome radio stated that 1,000 German warplanes and 600

Hitler Collects Fourth Capital

ANOTHER famed European capital and center of a national culture has been added to his collection by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in the bloodless seizure of Denmark and its chief city, Copenhagen. Copenhagen is the fourth European capital to fall under Nazi rule. Others are Vienna, Austria; Prague, Czechoslovakia, and Warsaw, Poland. A few hours later Oslo, Norway, became the fifth capital to fall into German hands.

tain American neutrality, and congress should be here to see that no moves are made away from that stand."

Mrs. Rogers said she did not "want" to endure the steaming Washington summer, but believed members should sacrifice personal comfort to the good of the people.

Disregarding these sentiments, senate Democratic Leader Barkley told President Roosevelt plans were made for an adjournment about June 1, and other Democrats declared they saw no reason for carrying the session through the summer.

"It strikes me," observed Sen. Connally (D) Tex., that there is more apt to be a peace with this congress at home."

Sen. Norris (I) Neb., the only remaining senator who voted against American entry into the World War, expressed similar sentiments.

"I'm not afraid to leave here," he said. "I believe the President sincerely is working to keep us out of war and that he will do it."

British aircraft were participating in this battle, according to a Reuters dispatch.

A Rome radio broadcast picked up by the Columbia Broadcasting System in New York stated:

"The biggest air and naval battle in history is reported raging on a front extending 600 miles north of the Frisian Islands. One hundred and fifty Allied naval units are reported to have engaged 100 German ships, while 600 Allied airplanes are fighting German planes over the North Sea."

(The Rome radio attributed this information to reports from Amsterdam.)

Ships Imported

While the battle raged, the British government broadcast orders to all Norwegian and Danish ships to proceed to Allied ports, promising they would be protected en route.

The broadcast added that a German message instructing the vessels to proceed to Italy, or Spain or other neutral countries "should be disregarded."

Latest advices received in London said the British had sent a battle fleet rushing into Oslo Fjord. Other dispatches had stated the British had landed troops which recaptured the cities of Trondheim and Bergen, but these reports were subject to doubt in view of lack of official confirmation.

Some estimates in London indicated that in the fighting at sea as many as 30 Allied and German warships were sunk or disabled.

A complete rout of the German forces with several warships, transports and supply-laden merchantmen sunk or disabled, was reported in Oslo Fjord.

Some reports stated that the 5,000-ton German cruiser Emden was included among the German losses. These advices were not confirmed, however. The Emden carried 534 officers and men whose fate was not known.

Wave after wave of German aircraft today made mass attacks on Scapa Flow and the Scottish Coast, but the British air ministry announced that resultant air battles cost the Nazis many planes.

ADOLF HITLER "OVERSTEPS"

surprise when Norway offered stern resistance to the German invasion. He may have nearly bowled over by the subsequent enterprise of the British fleet in steaming through the heavily mined Skagerrak and engaging a huge Nazi transport convoy.

The German press and officialdom has delighted of late in referring to Winston Churchill as "that little old man in the British admiralty" and holding up the British navy to scorn and ridicule. Time and time again German propagandists have charged that in air raids on Scapa Flow and the Firth of Forth, knockout blows had been given to the fleet which today is carrying on the traditions of Nelson.

If the Germans could be believed, there was hardly a warship of whole bottom left in the British navy to be sent forth to battle. The sheer audacity of Hitler and his military advisers in inviting a clash with Albion's formidable fleet indicates that they almost believed this themselves.

There is every reason to believe Hitler expected a walkover in Norway. He has never moved unless he expected one. He had it ridiculously easy in Czechoslovakia, quickly overwhelmed Poland by sheer force of aerial numbers and took Denmark by lifting his little finger.

Norway, however, has proved a formidable stumbling block. In substantiation of the belief that the Fuehrer never anticipated it, consider the plight of Major Vidkun Quisling, pro-Nazi officer of the Norwegian army who was appointed prime minister of Norway the moment Hitler's first soldier set foot on Norwegian soil.

Hitler obviously expected that King Haakon of Norway would accept this rump regime as his legal government representative and join King Victor Emmanuel of Italy in the roster of European puppet monarchs.

But the tall, determined Viking king was of another mind, threw the full weight of his prestige and personality behind continued resistance to Germany and the sudden flush of enthusiasm in Nazi Germany for Quisling's regime has evaporated in the dust of battle.

The test of strength now under way in Scandinavia is a major one. If it goes against him, Hitler doubtless will shift the scene of action elsewhere, probably in the Lowlands. But in the meantime he has learned for the first time that Nazi gains cannot always be won without fighting.

DEMURRER FILED AGAINST $2,712 SUIT FOR SERVICE

Fred C. Clark, South Court Street, executor of the will of the late Elizabeth Roger Baldwin, filed a demurrer Wednesday in the court suit brought against him by Miss Hattie Butler, West Franklin Street, who is seeking $2,712 for services rendered to Mrs. Baldwin prior to her death.

In his demurrer, Clark seeks to have the case dismissed from the court on the grounds that the case does not fall in the jurisdiction of the Common Pleas Court and that there are no facts stated in the petition which show cause for action.

Miss Butler brought suit after she had asked Clark as executor of the estate to pay her for the services which she was employed to perform by Mrs. Baldwin. On Clark's refusal she filed suit.

CIO AND AKRON COMPANY TO START NEGOTIATIONS

AKRON, April 11—Striking members of the CIO United Rubber Workers Union in the General Tire and Rubber Company plant at Akron met today to name a committee to negotiate with the management.

The URW local in the plant voted yesterday to call a strike immediately, because, local President Joseph Childs said, the company was "unwilling" to adjust grievances in accord with a company-union agreement. The vote for the strike was 640 to 150. The company employs approximately 1,200 in the Akron plant.

Picket lines were thrown out around the plant immediately after the strike vote, but foremen and superintendents were allowed to pass today.

Childs said that the union was anxious to settle all differences as soon as possible. Company officials had no comment to make.

"Another result of this constipation was indigestion, sour stomach, gas, acid risings, bloating, and 'heartburn' and got me to where I hated to suffer later. "Vendol was recommended

DIZ AND GABBY AT ODDS AGAIN

Dean Quoted As Stating No One Can Tell Him When To Go To Bed

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11—A showdown between Dizzy Dean and Manager Gabby Hartnett was believed imminent today as the pitcher and the Chicago Cubs, united briefly after Dean's long holdout, went separate ways again.

When Dean balked and removed his uniform at Topeka yesterday because he was fined $100 for breaking training rules, Hartnett purchased him a railroad ticket and ordered him to proceed directly to Chicago.

Dean, however, exchanged the ticket for one to St. Louis, saying he would later drive to Chicago to see the Cub owner, P. K. Wrigley. Both Hartnett and Dean washed their hands of each other, and Dean issued a series of seemingly contradictory statements.

Technically, Dean was fined for turning in at 12:45 a. m. instead of at the midnight curfew Tuesday night. Actually, Hartnett said, it was for repeated violation of training rules. Dean was reported to have boasted publicly that "no one can tell me when to go to bed."

Dean was not formally suspended. After removing his uniform, he returned to the field yesterday and watched the St. Louis Browns beat the Cubs 15-3.

COLUMBUS, April 11—Terming the measure "unnecessary," the Ohio Conservation Commission today rejected a proposal by U. S. Sen. Vic Donahey that Indian Lake, where the senator lives, be designated as a waterfowl sanctuary and placed under the jurisdiction of the federal biological survey.

Senator Donahey has already introduced legislation to accomplish the transfer in Congress, but the proposal needed the confirmation of the conservation commission.

The commission also voted to set aside 81 safety zones, closing about 52 miles of streams in 48 counties to fishing from April 15 to next February 28 to protect spawning.

CITY, COUNTY MAY ASK TAX LEVY TO HELP FINANCE RELIEF

OFFICIALS TALK ABOUT GROWING UNPAID ACCOUNT

Circleville Is In Debt To Commissioners, Who Are Also In Red

MANY FIGURES QUOTED

Suggestion Made That Aid Job Be Returned To Municipality

A situation that finds Circleville and Pickaway County facing a vital problem without money to care for its relief responsibilities was discussed at length Wednesday evening when the city council and the county commissioners met in City Hall. The outcome of the conference was that both are anticipating emergency action which will put more revenue into their treasuries for care of the needy.

Council met as a committee and not as an official body, so official business could not be transacted. But councilmen present promised the commissioners that definite action would be taken at next Wednesday's regular meeting with liquidation of the city's relief debt to the county treasury to be considered.

Several members of council, including President John Goeller, Frank Lynch and Clarence Helvering, and Solicitor Joe W. Adkins were not present, sickness and business keeping the members away. Neither was Mayor W. B. Cady on hand to participate in the discussion. Councilmen taking part were W. M. Reid, Donald Mason, Julius Helwagen and George Groom. Clerk Fred Nicholas was also on hand as an interested spectator. Representing the county were the commissioners, Ralph May, C. E. Wright and John Keller, Auditor Forrest Short and D. H. Marcy, director, and Miss Gretchen Moeller, case supervisor, from the relief office.

$2,020 Bill Important
The meeting was decided on

Monday when Solicitor Adkins met with the commissioners to discuss an unpaid $2,020 bill presented to council by the county for the city's share of relief administered under the city-county system in January and February. The bill came across the street over a month ago, but there is no money in the city treasury to take care of it. And the outlook is not bright, according to the official family. Another bill for March, estimated at $1,950, will soon be submitted to the city, making its total debt to the county $3,970.

There will be additional bills for each month through July, Director Marcy said, until $20,000 in relief bonds are paid off in August from money coming in from beer, malt, wort and admissions and a public utility 1 percent tax. After that this money will go into the relief account, but still will not be sufficient to carry the entire relief cost. City and county must devise some means to pay their bills.

Tax Levy Possible

In an effort to pay off the balance due the county it is highly probable that council will decide to put a one and one-half mill real estate levy on the ballot May 14, if time remains for that to be done. The commissioners, it is understood, are ready also to submit a one and one-half mill levy to the voters. The city and county, it is estimated, could raise $53,000 for relief from this issue. However, both parties are concerned over success of such an effort. In the county, officials believe, a 65 percent vote is needed to pass a tax levy for relief; in the city the percentage is 55 percent.

The city stands ready to issue bonds in anticipation of payment of delinquent taxes if the one and one-half mill levy fails to carry or cannot be put on the ballot. Just what the county would do is not certain.

Marcy pointed out that as of April 10 the county's relief account is overdrawn by $3,000 when unpaid bills are considered. This fact makes payment of the city's delinquency all the more important, because the county needs all the money it can gather to keep itself from sinking deeper into the red.

May Return Task

Commissioner Wright declared that he is ready now to turn the city's relief back to Circleville for administration so that the county will not have to stand the brunt of additional debt. "I am ready right now," he told the group, "to put into effect the 30-day clause of our contract that gives either party the right to end our agreement."

The contract was signed in July, 1939, when an agreement was reached wherein the county's relief office should administer the city's task. Both parties were to share the expense.

The possibility looms that the commissioners may vote to invoke this clause at their meeting Monday, although Commissioners May and Keller appeared ready to await the council's action of next Wednesday.

Marcy declared that should the city take over its own relief work that expenses would mount because approximately $500 a month would have to be paid to the county to help carry on its sewing and surplus commodities projects and WPA certification which cover city and county. This would be in addition to the relief orders that the city would have to issue.

Officials, city and county, agree that the relief problem can be administered more cheaply under a cooperative plan.

Opinions Expressed

The entire relief program came in for discussion during the meeting with nearly all persons present expressing opinions. Marcy stated that over $1,000,000 is coming into Pickaway County each year for relief of all classes, including WPA, blind pensions, mothers pensions, age pensions, CCC, aid for dependent children, and AAA and other payments to farm operators. The latter amounts to about half of the total, the director said.

Miss Moeller, asked concerning the willingness of some of the relief clients to try to help themselves, declared that in her work she found those who did not put forth individual effort to be the exception rather than the rule. "Those who won't help themselves have always been that way," she said.

A new ruling that cuts pay for relief laborers from 30 cents an hour for an eight hour day to 25 cents an hour was announced by Marcy.

Marcy revealed numerous figures concerning relief, the amounts being somewhat enlightening to all present. He discussed January, February, March and the first half of April.

In January, Marcy reported, the relief expense was $8,556.40, the city share being $3,665.49 and the county $4,910.91, the load being 583 cases at an average cost of $14.66; February, total cost $10,706.06, city's share $4,614.58, county's $6,091.58, load 883 cases and average of each case $12; March, total cost $8,403.51, city's share $3,255.51, county's $5,108; case load 681 and average cost $12.33; April, to date, total cost $3,561.38, city's share $1,370.04, county's $2,191.34, city's cases 218, county's 212. The April figure is $1,179.07 less than for the same period in March, indicating that with the change in weather that work in private industry, farm labor and WPA has opened up.

Averages Disclosed

The average number of persons in relief families now receiving aid is 4.1 in the county and 3.7 in the city.

The director broke down his relief administration figures to inform the group how much was being spent for food as one item and other actual relief including rent, clothes, fuel, medicine and other similar items in another item. In January $9.26 was spent for each family for food and $5.40 for the other items; in February $8.36 for food and $3.64 for other relief; in March $8.17 for food and $4.16 for other relief; in April $5.67 for food and $2.61 for other aid, fuel bills being cut considerably in this month.

Marcy said that an important bill that comes in each month covers surgical and medical care. This amount is between $800 and $1,000 monthly.

The director also said that the lowest possible figure that the relief load might be brought to would be 280 cases. This figure is the normal load during summer months figured over a period of years.

Councilman Reid, summing up the city's case, declared that council doesn't question a single figure

as disclosed by the relief office, but is concerned in "just where the money to pay the bills is coming from?"
